BATTLE FOR WHITE HOUSE RAGES TODAY

GEORGIA IS READY TO CAST HER VOTE FOR WILSON TODAY

Atlanta Polling Places Will Open at 7 and Close at 6. County Polls Open at 8 and Close at 3.

INTEREST HERE CENTERS IN RACE FOR COLLECTOR

Lucien Harris, I. N. Ragsdale, James M. Fuller and Charles I. Branan Ask Fulton County Place.

POLLING PLACES.

Polls will be open in the various polling places in the city of Atlanta from 7 o'clock a. m. until 6 p. m. today. In the precincts outside of Atlanta the polls will open at 8 o'clock in the morning and close at 3 o'clock in the afternoon. The latter include East Point, College Park, Hapeville and Peachtree districts.

Outside of the city the polling places will be in the customary places. In the city precincts the polling places will be at the following addresses:

First Ward—Stephenson Plumbing company, No. 49 South Forsyth street.

Second Ward—Courthouse.

Third Ward—Hunter and Fraser streets.

Fourth Ward—Wingate Plumbing company, No. 321 Edgewood avenue.

Fifth Ward—W. P. Edge's place, No. 748 Marietta street.

Sixth Ward—Belle-Isle, No. 4 Luckie street.

Seventh Ward—Medlock's Pharmacy, Lee and Gordon streets.

Eighth Ward—Marshall's Pharmacy, No. 810 Peachtree street.

Ninth Ward—T. F. Rogers' drug store, Elizabeth street and Edgewood avenue.

Tenth Ward—Bomar Soda company, No. 519 Lee street.

Four tickets will be offered voters in Georgia: Democratic, republican, progressive and socialist. For governor of Georgia there are three candidates: Democratic, Hugh M. Dorsey; republican, Roscoe Pickett; socialist, Thomas M. Taylor. The democratic ticket bears nominees for all elective statehouse offices, as is true also of the socialist ticket. There are four candidates for the office of Fulton county tax collector: Lucien Harris, I. N. Ragsdale, James M. Fuller and Charles I. Branan.

With ideal election-day weather promised by the weather man, with the issues closely drawn nationally between the democratic and the republican tickets and with a spirited local contest on for the election of a successor to the late Andy Stewart, Fulton county tax collector, the vote throughout the state at today's general election bids fair to be the heaviest polled in many years.

The ballots for Fulton county all were delivered to the ordinary yesterday, and by him distributed to the various polling places last night, and all will be in readiness for the opening of the polls, in the city precincts at 7, in the country precincts at 8 o'clock this morning. In the city the polls will remain open until 6 o'clock tonight, while in the country districts they will close at 3 o'clock.

MARK OFF NAMES OF ALTERNATES.

An error has been made in many of the democratic official ballots printed for distribution to the voters today which may imperil the validity of the ticket insofar as the vote for president is concerned unless the individual voter is careful enough to correct it when voting.

Not only the names of all of the electors selected by the last democratic convention appear on the ticket, but also the names of the alternates. Notice has been sent out to county democratic officials urging them to see

Ideal Weather Promised Georgia for Election Day

Fair weather is the promise of the forecaster for today for Atlanta and vicinity with somewhat higher temperatures in the midday.

The forecast for fair weather holds good over the entire state, says the official report of conditions. Fine weather prevails over most of the country, according to the reports from the different stations.

Small amounts of rainfall are reported from points along the New England coast as far south as Philadelphia. A slight rainfall is also reported from certain portions of the Pacific coast. Temperatures are high in the west and north for this period of the year, no reports showing a lower temperature than 50 degrees.

Weather conditions in Atlanta will be ideal for a big vote. The temperature here is expected to remain about the same with the high mark reached yesterday at 74 degrees.

INSURANCE OFFICE PROVES THE SCENE OF SUDDEN WEDDING

Insurance offices in downtown skyscrapers are not such prosaic places as they might seem. Pretty Miss Annie Evelyn McCraw, formerly of Ocilla, Ga., and a recent graduate of Cox college, and Phillip G. White, a wooer, found this to be the case when they visited the office of the Volunteer State Life Insurance association in the Healey building yesterday afternoon.

The couple proposed to marry at an early date. Lee Harvey, manager of the association, knowing this, persuaded them to accept the use of his offices under the condition the groom take out a policy in the Volunteer State Life, the association supplying such necessities as license, minister, witnesses, good wishes.

Rev. L. A. Brown was called in, and the ceremony performed. With one stroke the bridegroom signed his license, and with the other his insurance policy. Immediately thereafter he and Mrs. White left for a honeymoon to Columbus, Ga., before taking up residence in Fitzgerald, where White is a prominent druggist.

AUTOS FOR SCHOOL TOTS.

City Will Care for Children in Special Classes.

Several city machines will be provided for the use of the children taking school work in the special classes of the system. The resolution providing for the use of the machines was introduced by Alderman Armistead at the request of the school authorities, and passed by council with no opposition.

The paper provides that a sufficient number of machines shall be present each morning at 7 o'clock at certain rendezvous to gather the children and take them to the classes. They will call for them at 1 o'clock and take them back to the place from which they were taken in the morning.

The request for the use of the city cars came from Miss Annie McDonald, special nurse in the branch taking care of the delinquent children. In a letter to Alderman Armistead it was pointed out that many of the children are physically unable to walk for any long distance.

There are three classes of the children being taken from the public schools in the city. Only 14 children are allowed in each class and special instruction by trained teachers are given them.

In his remarks to council Alderman Armistead called attention to the fact that two of the city machines will gather the children at English avenue and Home Park schools and take them to the special classes. The other machine will get its load from another point to be selected later.

HUGHES ELECTOR COMMITS SUICIDE ON ELECTION EVE

St. Louis, Mo., November 6.—Frank B. Ruhr, republican candidate for presidential elector from the tenth Missouri district, committed suicide today. The republican state committee met and nominated Henry Kersting to fill the vacancy.

The nomination of Kersting was too late to get on the official ballot and republican voters will be urged to write in the name. It is not thought possible, however, that this information will reach all the voters of the state, and it is predicted that thousands will vote for the dead man.

The death of Ruhr and the eleventh hour nomination of Kersting, it is thought, may result in a division of the republican vote for elector from the tenth district, and even if Hughes carries the state it is possible that a democrat will be elected in that district. In that event Missouri would cast seventeen votes for Hughes and one for Wilson. Should the state go democratic, the death of Ruhr will have no effect in the electoral college.

German U-Boat Destroyed.

Berlin, November 6.—(Via Sayville.) The destruction of the German submarine U-20 by her own crew after the submersible had gone aground on the west coast of Jutland yesterday, is reported by the German admiralty today. The crew was rescued by a torpedo boat.

VALUE OF PROPERTY OF THE STATE ROAD ABOUT $15,000,000

This Valuation Is Exclusive of Business, Good Will and Other Elements Always Considered.

COST OF ATLANTA LAND SHOWN IN THIS REPORT

Figures Are Arrived At as Result of Statement Made to Rail Board by Railroad Expert.

Of the valuation figures of several railroads in Georgia submitted to the state railroad commission Monday when the intrastate freight rate hearing was resumed after a week's recess, the figures given in connection with the Western and Atlantic railroad are of unusual public interest, for the reason that they throw some degree of light upon the physical valuation of the state's property, which is soon to be re-leased.

The figures on the Western and Atlantic were submitted by Hunter McDonald, of the engineering department of that road and of the Nashville, Chattanooga and St. Louis, which is the present lessee of the state road. While Mr. McDonald's figures include some property in Atlanta owned by the Nashville, Chattanooga and St. Louis and not by the state of Georgia, and do not include the state's terminal properties in Chattanooga or any of Georgia's holdings in the state of Tennessee, his figures indicate that it would take approximately $15,000,000 to reproduce the actual tangible physical property of the Western and Atlantic railroad, exclusive of business, good will and other elements which must be considered in valuation.

Cost of Reproduction.

With the exception of the presentations of the carriers' proposed new rates on logs, which presentation was made by Randall Clifton, assistant freight traffic manager of the Southern railway, completing the testimony of the traffic departments of the carriers, the entire session of Monday was occupied with testimony from the engineering departments of several railroads as to cost of reproduction.

The carriers are presenting their statements of the actual tangible physical valuation of their properties in terms of cost of reproduction, upon the theory that a railroad through maintenance is a perpetuated property, which, as long as it is maintained to its full capacity for service, cannot be considered as having deteriorated, which is the theory upon which this element of valuation is being presented to the valuation department of the interstate commerce commission in its census of the valuation of railroads in the United States now being made.

Mr. McDonald, in discussing the cost of reproducing that part of the Western and Atlantic railroad which lies in the state of Georgia, stated that this cost of reproduction new is arrived at without any estimate of possible depreciation or of original cost. The measurements and valuations used are those fixed by the government valuation, except for lands which have not yet been fixed by the government. Neither have prices yet been fixed by the government, so Mr. McDonald used land values based upon his experience in buying right-of-ways and the prices are based upon the average of prices submitted to the government.

Mr. McDonald testified that the Western and Atlantic railroad has in Georgia a total of 239.25 miles of track.

The total cost of reproducing the right-of-way, Mr. McDonald believed would be $4,541,180, which figures were arrived at by placing a valuation of $150 per acre on land outside of the station grounds at Marietta, Cartersville, Dalton, Ringgold, Graysville and

TAFT IS JEERED BY LABOR CROWD UNTIL HE QUITS

New Haven, Conn., November 6.—When former President Taft attempted to make a political speech to a crowd of workmen at a local munitions factory today he was jeered and hooted to such an extent that he was obliged to abandon his speech, after talking a few minutes.

Speaking of the affair afterward, Mr. Taft said: "I have no complaint to make. Such demonstrations, I am disposed to think, make votes for the republican party."

He added that he did not care to strain his voice as he was to speak at a rally later.

Rumanians Striking On Dobrudja Front; Teutons in Retreat

GERMANS BATTLE TO CHECK ALLIES ON SOMME FRONT

Despite the Efforts of the Kaiser's Troops, However, the French Have Made a Further Advance.

BRITISH YIELD GROUND TAKEN FROM GERMANS

Heavy Fighting Continues on Italian Front--Austrians Are Attacking in Effort to Stop the Drive at Triest.

New York, November 6.—(By Associated Press European Cable.)—All along the battle line in France between the Somme and Ancre rivers the Germans are tenaciously disputing attempts by the British and French to gain further ground.

Berlin says that in Sunday's fighting over a front of twelve miles the French and British suffered heavy casualties and won nothing except a local gain in the St. Pierre Vaast wood. London admits that the British were compelled to give back to the Germans ground the British had previously won at the Butte de Warlencourt.

In the St. Pierre Vaast wood, however, the French Monday made a further advance in the northern part of the wood and captured additional prisoners—six hundred of whom were taken in the fighting of Sunday and Monday.

Rome reports that the Austrians are bringing up heavy reinforcements on the battle front north of Triest. Here the Austrians apparently have taken the offensive, but nowhere have they been able to regain any of their lost positions, according to Rome.

MORE PROGRESS MADE BY FRENCH NORTH OF SOMME

Paris, November 6.—(Via London.)—Additional progress was made during Monday by the French troops operating in the northern part of the St. Pierre Vaast wood and more prisoners also have been taken by them, according to the official communication issued tonight.

The communication says:

"North of the Somme we continued our progress during the day in the northern part of St. Pierre Vaast wood. We have taken in this sector since yesterday over 600 prisoners.

"It is confirmed that the enemy in the course of his violent counter attack last night on our positions in the St. Pierre Vaast wood suffered heavy losses.

"On the Verdun sector there has been only an artillery struggle which continued in the Douaumont-Vaux-Damloup region.

"In the Vosges a sudden attack on one of our small posts in the Fecht valley failed. On the remainder of the front calm prevailed.

"Eastern army: Along the whole front (Macedonia) there is nothing to

RUMANIAN REVERSES ON TRANSYLVANIA LINE

The Austro-Germans Make Gains in the Predeal Pass Region, and Also Halt the Rumanian Advance in the Jiul Valley.

New York, November 6.—(By Associated Press European Cable.)—After a week or more of doubt concerning operations in the Dobrudja region of Rumania, where the Teutonic allies had been marching almost unimpeded northward from the Black sea to the Danube, comes the report that the Rumanians have taken the offensive, probably aided by Russians, and compelled the enemy to retreat at several points.

On the Transylvanian front, however, the Rumanians in the Jiul valey who for some time had been holding the upper hand over the Austro-Germans, forcing them to give ground, have now been stopped, the Teutons having brought up reinforcements. In the Predeal Pass region, after heavy fighting, the Rumanians also have met with a reverse, being compelled to retreat after long and stubborn battles.

Bombardments and small infantry attacks continue to feature the fighting in the Macedonian theater.

TEUTONIC TROOPS FORCED TO RETIRE IN THE DOBRUDJA

Bucharest, November 6.—(Via London.)—The war office announces that Rumania forces in Dobrudja have compelled the retirement of Teutonic troops, which in their retreat set fire to several villages.

The statement says:

"Northern and Northwestern Fronts: On the frontier of west Moldavia the situation is unchanged.

"In the Buzeu valley at Table Butzi and Bratocea artillery duels are proceeding.

"In the Prahova valley we repulsed enemy attacks from Rijes toward our center and left wing.

"Fighting is proceeding north of the Cerbului valley.

"In the region of Dragovalavele there has been an artillery bombardment.

"On the right bank of the Alt violent fighting continues in the region of Racovitza-Titesti.

"In the Jiul valley the enemy received reinforcements and we discontinued our pursuit.

"At Orsova the situation is unchanged.

"Southern Front: All along the Danube there has been artillery activity.

"Dobrudja: Our advance detachments forced the enemy to retire. During his retreat he set fire to the villages of Daeni, Garlici, Rosman and Gaidar."

TEUTONS GAIN NEAR PREDEAL.

Petrograd, November 6.—(Via London.)—Rumanian troops in the vicinity of Predeal were compelled to retire yesterday before the invading Austrians and Germans, the war office announced today. In Dobrudja the Russians carried out successful operations. The statement reads:

WHAT WOMEN WILL DO IN 12 SUFFRAGE STATES PUZZLES PARTY LEADERS

In Nine States the Prohibition Question Will Be Passed Upon—Interest Is Very Keen All Over the Country and Record-Breaking Vote Is Expected--Fair Weather and Moderate Temperature for Most of Country.

New York, November 6.—On the eve of the presidential election general confidence in the result of the balloting tomorrow was expressed in the camps of the rival republican and democratic forces. Political workers had completed their tasks, their leaders had issued the usual final forecasts and nothing remained but the work of bringing out the vote and then to get news of the result that will bring joy or gloom to one side or the other.

Tonight the standard bearers of the leading parties remained quietly at their homes, President Woodrow Wilson at Shadow Lawn and Charles E. Hughes at his hotel in New York. Surrounded by immediate members of their families, the candidates plan to receive the election returns at their homes. Tomorrow Mr. Wilson will go to Princeton to vote at the old fire engine house near the Princeton campus. Mr. Hughes will vote in a laundry on Forty-fourth street, New York, near his hotel headquarters.

The weather man has promised generally fair weather and moderate temperature in most parts of the country for election day, and political leaders said this presaged the coming out of a record-breaking vote.

Officials to Be Elected.

Officials to be elected follow:

President and vice president.

Thirty-three United States senators.

Four hundred and thirty-five members of the house of representatives.

Thirty-five governors.

Legislatures and other minor state offices.

A number of states will vote on certain amendments, chiefly of local interest.

The states of Idaho, Michigan, Missouri, Montana, Nebraska, South Dakota, Maryland, Arkansas and California will, however, vote on the prohibition question, an issue that has loomed large on the political horizon for some years past. The territory of Alaska will also vote on this question.

In Arizona an amendment for the abolition of capital punishment will be up for popular decision.

Women's part in the presidential election is one of the outstanding features. In one quarter of the 48 states

Both of these great telegraph circuits will reach not only every state, but every city in the union, and bulletins will be flashed thick and fast from 7 o'clock until after midnight.

No hall, and no street, in Atlanta, is large enough to accommodate The Constitution's guests on election nights. So make your arrangements to come tonight, to Five Points, as usual, and see The Constitution's returns.

Service begins at 7 o'clock, and Gregg and the Gopher will be there!

Mrs. Albert Walker, when visiting in Carver, Mass., a few years ago, received a kitten as a gift. She took it to her home in Washington, D. C. After a time the Walkers moved to Los Angeles, Cal., carrying the cat with them; now they have come east to Plymouth to live, bringing the cat, which they assert is the most traveled cat in America.

Tempting Broadway Has Little Appeal For Aged Negress

"Mammy" Turner Gives Up Offer of "Boa'd" and Fine Wages, and Is Now Coming Back to Cook for Atlanta Family.

Thirty-five dollars per month and her "boa'd" offered to an old-time southern "mammy" to stay in New York and show just how to make real sure enough biscuits are entirely too little in the way of inducements to hold Munie Turner, age "'bout fifty," on the far side of the Mason-Dixon line.

Munie was formerly employed by Mrs. Brader Baker, 111 East Third street, Atlanta, where she cooked the finest of fine biscuits, roasted 'possum and 'tatters to a turn and otherwise enjoyed the life as a care-free darky.

Then came the spell.

From the far distanct city of Gotham, from whence Aunt Munie had received cards from some of her colored friends, describing the wonders of the city and the "climbate" and the other things which are calculated to appeal to those of her sex.

Munie fell. Last September she announced to Mrs. Baker that she intended to run up to New York.

"What are you going to do there, Munie?" Mrs. Baker asked. "Are you going to work?"

"No'm, I'se jes' goin' ter spen' de winter in the nawth. I hears it's a mighty healthy section and I jes' nacherly want to trabbel some."

Truth of the matter was that Munie had been corresponding with a friend who wanted her to come to New York and accept a "position" as a nurse. By art of gentle persuasion she had gotten the old negress to believe that even in nursing and cooking New York offered a paradise for darkies.

But Monday came a post card to Mrs. Baker. It read as follows:

"Dear Mrs. Baker: How are you? Hope you are well. This is some place, but it do not appeal to me, although you can make good. A lady from Yonkers offer me $35 to cook, but I'm comin' home."

Munie is expected in a few days. Her old job awaits her.

Watch Your BALLOT!

The official ballot contains the names of all candidates for Tax Collector of Fulton County.

Various tickets, containing the name of only one individual candidate, have been printed and circulated.

Be sure the name of Lucien Harris appears on your ballot.

LUCIEN HARRIS

GEORGIA IS READY TO CAST HER VOTE

that the names of the alternates are stricken from the ballot before it is voted. Each voter should be careful to see that the names of the alternates are marked off.

While there is no conjecture expressed upon any hand that Georgia will elect any but democratic presidential electors, Republicans, progressives and socialists who have electoral tickets in the field are exerting every influence possible to bear upon their following to go to the polls to the last man and make the best showing that can be made. And in two, or perhaps three, of the north Georgia counties the republicans hope to secure a majority of votes. The party has only one nominee for a statehouse office, that one being Roscoe Pickett, running for governor.

RACE FOR TAX COLLECTOR.

The contest in Fulton county for the office of tax collector bids fair to be one of the most interesting ever waged in a general election. Four men are running for the office for which Mr. Stewart had been nominated at the primary.

In order that republicans, progressives and socialists may not be deprived of their right to express their choice in this, election officials Monday explained, and are emphasizing, the methods of procedure. The republican, progressive or socialist voters may vote by writing in the name of the candidate of their choice on their regular ballot, or they may vote individual ballot of their candidate and attach it to their party ballot.

Attention of the voters of Fulton county is called to the fact that the names of all four candidates for tax collector are included on the democratic ticket, which will be on hand at all the polls today.

This notice is made necessary on account of the fact that there are a number of tickets out which will bear only one name, thus causing some confusion to the voters. All voters have to do to be on the safe side, and to be sure of having a chance to vote for the man he wants, will be to get the regular democratic ticket and to scratch the names of three candidates, leaving the name of the one for whom he wishes to vote.

G. O. P. MAN CHARGES "POLITICAL TRICK."

The charge has been made by a member of the republican state central committee that by a "political trick" supporters of I. N. Ragsdale have had his name placed on the regular republican ticket. His statement follows:

Editor Constitution: I have seen many political tricks worked in Georgia, but by far the worst is the one worked by the I. N. Ragsdale supporters through Churchill P. Goree, as Mr. Britton or his agent so informed me. I find that Mr. Ragsdale has had his name placed on the regular republican national ticket with the republican electors and Roscoe Pickett for governor. If Mr. I. N. Ragsdale is a republican and is running for tax collector of Fulton county as a republican, we will gladly support him if he will so announce publicly, but if it is only a trick to fool the colored voters and deceive the people we will not support him and his trick will be short-lived and will re-act. Yours truly,

THOMAS M. BLODGETT,
Member Republican State Central Committee.
November 6, 1916.

In addition to voting for national, judiciary, state and county nominees, Georgia voters will be called upon today to ratify five amendments to the state constitution which were adopted by the last general assembly. The titles to the amendments are printed on the official ballots, both for and against, and voters will mark their ballots according as they are favorable to or opposed to the proposed amendments.

Three of the amendments are of state-wide interest. They are amendments abolishing the fee system for the office of solicitor general and putting those officials on salaries, increasing the number of the judges of the court of appeals from three to six, and exempting from taxation ships and vessels engaged exclusively in foreign commerce, owned and operated by Georgia citizens and Georgia corporations.

LOCAL AMENDMENTS.

Two of the amendments are really local in their operation, although they are to be voted on by the people throughout the state. One of them increases the salaries of judges of the superior court of the Chattahoochee, Rome, southwestern and western circuits from $3,000 to $5,000 per year. These increases are not to be paid out of the state treasury, however, but by the counties of Muscogee, Floyd, Sumter and Clarke, the city counties of these circuits. It simply does what has already been done for the judges of the superior court in Chatham, Bibb, Richmond and Fulton counties. The other amendment provides for the representation in the general assembly of Bacon county, a matter which was overlooked when that county was created.

The amendment exempting from taxation Georgia owned vessels carrying foreign trade was passed at the instance of the Chatham delegation, the purpose being to encourage the development of a Georgia merchant marine.

Some of the voters have made inquiries about the proposed constitutional amendment providing for the extension of the Western and Atlantic railroad to the sea. As this amendment did not receive the necessary two-thirds majority to secure its passage through both houses, it, of course, does not appear on the ballot today.

The Shop Early Shibboleth Is the Slogan of Mutual Felicitation

To get exactly what you want early—is certainly much better than taking what you can get later on. There should be a co-partnership of interests between yourself and the merchants from whom you are going to buy your holiday merchandise; and that co-operation should have as its chief object the great salient of "shop early." It means more to you than it does to the merchant, to do your Christmas shopping before the season advances and the rush is on. You have the privilege of early selection while stocks are fresh, complete and abundant; and before prices have a chance to be influenced by the cry of shortages, or inability to replenish exhausted stocks.

RAILROAD MAN SAYS IT WAS RISKY FOR HIM TO TRY TO WORK

J. J. Ham Says After Taking Tanlac Rheumatism Is Gradually Leaving Him. Feels 100 Per Cent Better.

"The rheumatism hurt me so bad I couldn't sleep and sometimes the suffering was so terrible I could hardly keep from crying," said J. J. Ham, of Bremen, Ga., while in Jacobs' Pharmacy, Atlanta, last Saturday. Mr. Ham, who has been railroading for the past fifteen years and now braking on the Southern, is well known, especially among railroad people.

After purchasing his fifth bottle of Tanlac Mr. Ham continued: "I'm certainly glad I found out about Tanlac, because I don't believe I could have stood braking another winter suffering with the rheumatism as I was. It began working on me last winter and I think was brought on by exposure to rain and sleet and damp weather. I suppose my system was all rundown and in bad shape, too, and that had something to do with it. The pain got to be so intense I simply couldn't sleep and would just roll and toss all night long.

"My knees and ankles hurt me worse than anywhere else and I was so crippled up it was risky for me to go among the cars and try to do my work. On cloudy, rainy days I could hardly pick up my feet and had to just drag along like a snail. Sometimes it would get into both shoulders and pain me so I could hardly use my arms at all. I tell you I just suffered agony and nobody knows how bad it was except those in the same fix, and no kind of medicine or liniments seemed to do me one bit of good.

"Finally I listened to my friends and started to taking Tanlac and it certainly was lucky for me that I did. In just a few days I could tell the rheumatism was turning loose and the pain has been gradually getting less every day. I have taken four bottles and am now buying my fifth, and while I'm not entirely well yet, my knees and ankles already feel a hundred per cent better and I hardly notice the pains in my shoulders at all. I can now sleep and get my rest every night and feel better in every way than I have in months. If I keep on improving as I am now when the bad, winter weather sets in I'll be in fine shape for it. Tanlac has certainly made a remarkable change in my feelings and I don't think, but I know it's fine medicine and I'm strong for it on account of what it has done for me."

Rheumatism is not only one of the most prevalent, but one of the most painful and difficult to treat of all present day diseases. When the digestive organs and bowels are not working properly, and the kidneys become clogged up, the whole system becomes deranged and saturated with uric acid poisons and other impurities, which accumulate in the joints and other parts of the body and produce the condition known as rheumatism.

Tanlac is a powerful reconstructive tonic and quickly overcomes this condition by acting directly on the vital organs, toning them up and enabling them to perform their proper functions, so that the impurities are soon eliminated from the system in a natural way. Liniments and external applications as a general thing only afford temporary relief. Tanlac is a constitutional treatment and gets right at the root of the trouble by removing the cause.

U. D. C. TO TAKE ACTION ON STONE MOUNTAIN

President General Seems to Be Unfavorable to Memorial Project.

Dallas, Texas, November 6.—Announcement was made tonight that the executive board of the United Daughters of the Confederacy, which met late today preliminary to the twenty-second general convention of the organization, which will begin here Wednesday, had under consideration a contest challenging the legality of the election of Mrs. Adelbert Warren Mears, of Baltimore, as president of the Maryland division, and charges of "insubordination" against the Gainesville, Fla., chapter.

Mrs. Cordelia Powell Odenheimer, president-general, stated that decisions would not be reached before tomorrow.

Mrs. Odenheimer received word today from General Bennett Young, former commander-in-chief of the United Confederate Veterans, that he would appear before the convention Thursday with a proposition to purchase the Jefferson Davis farm in Kentucky for memorial purposes.

The president-general also stated that the convention would take some action this year on the Stone Mountain memorial project in Georgia. "We will either indorse or refuse to indorse the project," she said.

Mrs. Odenheimer declared that, personally, she believed the expenditure of $2,000,000 could be made more judiciously in aiding veterans and their descendants than in undertaking the proposed monument plan.

Gainesville, Fla., November 6.—There are two local chapters of the United Daughters of the Confederacy, one known as J. J. Finley chapter and the other as Kirby Smith chapter. Charges of insubordination were preferred against the J. J. Finley chapter.

The statement says:

"Southwest of Predeal we captured Laomu height and made further progress southeast of Rothenthurm pass.

"On both sides of the Szurduk pass road Rumanian attacks were repulsed.

VALUE OF PROPERTY OF THE STATE ROAD

Rome and the limits of the Atlanta terminals, in this figure, bearing in mind the difficulty of obtaining at a reasonable price land in a continuous and narrow strip, particularly when the location of such land is usually generally known.

Value of Atlanta Land.

For the other land, except in Atlanta, a valuation of $4,000 per acre was figured.

Values of land within the limits of the Atlanta terminals were deduced from the prevailing prices in the immediate vicinity of the road's property.

The detail of arriving at this valuation in Atlanta throws an interesting light upon property values within the city of Atlanta, and is as follows:

W. & A. Reproduction.

Mr. McDonald's exhibit submitted to the commission shows the cost of reproduction of the Western and Atlantic railroad, such of it as lies within this state, including the Rome road, would be $11,806,862.67. Included in this is property owned in Atlanta by the Nashville, Chattanooga and St. Louis Those who have made some study of the value of these properties are of the opinion that, if the value of the Nashville, Chattanooga and St. Louis property in Atlanta were deducted and the value of the property which Georgia owns in Tennessee were added, it would show a total valuation for the right-of-way, tracks, etc., of approximately $15,000,000.

In response to a query from Chairman Candler, of the commission, Mr. McDonald stated that, in the estimate of the value of the land owned by the Western and Atlantic, no multiple had been used as in the instance of statements from some of the carriers, notably the Central of Georgia, which road alleged that its investigations had shown that it costs a railroad about 25 per cent more than the actual market value of real estate to purchase a right-of-way in the larger cities, about twice as much as the market value in the smaller cities and about three times as much in the country, upon which findings the Central's statement of cost of reproduction of its right-of-way was based.

Mr. McDonald will later file with the commission an exhibit differentiating the value of the property of the Nashville, Chattanooga and St. Louis and the Western and Atlantic in Atlanta.

Operating for Revenue.

Upon the question of operating trains for revenue over partially completed roads, several times discussed during the day's hearing, Mr. McDonald, in response to cross-examination from the chairman, expressed his opinion that such operation is not wise, stating that when the first revenue train is operated the road must be turned over to the operating company, this view tending to support the view of the carriers that revenue derived from a road before completion cannot be considered as reducing the cost of construction or reproduction.

W. D. Faucette, of the engineering department of the Seaboard Air Line, stated that, owing to the fact that the federal government has not yet proceeded far enough with its investigation of the Seaboard's property, he could not at this time submit an estimate of the cost of reproduction of the Seaboard's lines in Georgia, but that such an estimate submitted to the Georgia commission in 1904 showed a cost of $19,659,000. This figure he believed to be reasonable at that time, since when there have been additions and improvement. This figure does not include the value of the franchise or equipment, which will be presented by another witness, he said.

E. M. Lunn, of the engineering department of the Southern railway, presented figures, based partially on estimate and partially on computation, to show that the cost of reproduction of the Southern's 1,510 miles in Georgia would be not less than $44,000,000, which estimate, he said, was based on the cost of a typical Georgia mile of construction.

Ask Time for Answer.

Upon resuming Monday morning the hearing upon the petition of the railroads of Georgia for a general revision of intrastate freight rates the Georgia railroad commission heard the close of the testimony from the traffic departments of the railroads and the beginning of the testimony from the engineering and accounting departments as to the valuation of the roads and other fiscal matters.

W. A. Wimbish, chief counsel for the Georgia Shippers' association, appeared and asked that, upon the recess which will be taken upon completion of the testimony of the carriers this week, the commission grant the opposition to the carriers' position until not earlier than March 1, 1917, in which to prepare their answer. The carriers made no objection to this request, but urged that the hearing, which has already run since August 16 last, be brought to a close at the earliest convenience.

Want New Rate on Logs.

Completing the testimony from the traffic departments of the railroads, Randall Clifton, assistant freight traffic manager of the Southern railway, presented the new rates which the carriers are proposing on logs. The proposed new rates, while representing some reductions under the present Class B scale, per 40,000 pound car, is generally an increase over the present rates, which the carriers regard as low.

The carriers proposed to ask in other states and before the interstate commerce commission that the new scale proposed in Georgia be made applicable, both interstate and intrastate, throughout the southern states.

Opening the testimony upon fiscal matters of the carriers, which testimony will occupy the remainder of the hearing this week, J. W. Fox, valuation engineer of the Central of Georgia railroad, was the first witness placed on the stand.

Mr. Fox testified that, upon actual and careful inventory of the property of the Central, the cost to reproduce the road has been found to be $80,000,000, while the equipment would cost $17,000,000. The franchise was valued at $4,000,000.

Mr. Fox's testimony was the center of extended and very minute cross-examination and discussion on the part of the commission, it being evident that the commission intends to make the most rigid search into this very important phase of the carriers' testimony.

Attorney Wimbish, who, after an illness of several weeks, was able to be at the hearing again, covered much of the same ground in his cross-examination as had been covered by the chairman's queries.

Removed From Blacklist.

Washington, November 6.—The firm of H. Kemper, Galveston, Texas, has been removed from the British blacklist, said an official announcement today from the state department. No reason was given, but it was understood the British government is satisfied the firm was not dealing with the enemy. Of the thirty-six firms originally blacklisted, six have been removed.

report, except intermittent artillery duels and patrol encounters. British airplanes have dropped several bombs on Bogdantze (8 miles northeast of Doiran)."

The French official statement, issued in the afternoon, reads:

"North of the Somme we made some progress between Les Boeufs and Sailly-Saillisel. Yesterday evening and during the night the enemy violently counter attacked the positions which we had taken from Sailly-Saillisel as far south as St. Pierre Vaast wood. All attacks delivered against our trenches on the northern spur and western edges of the wood withered under our machine gun and artillery fire, which inflicted heavy losses on the enemy. Southwest of the wood and in the village of Sailly-Saillisel the enemy succeeded in gaining a little ground.

"On the right bank of the Meuse (Verdun front) there was active artillery firing in the region of Damloup. No infantry action took place.

"Everywhere else the night was calm."

BRITISH LOSE SOME GROUND.

London, November 6.—A strong German counter attack last night compelled the British to relinquish a portion of the ground they had captured in the neighborhood of Butte de Warlencourt on the Somme front, the war office announced today.

The statement follows:

"During the night a strong enemy counter attack forced us to relinquish a portion of the ground we had won in the neighborhood of Butte de Warlencourt.

"East of Les Boeufs we secured yesterday's gains.

"We conducted three successful raids on trenches in the Armentieres and Ypres area."

The war office communication, issued this evening, says:

"Our front between the Ancre and the Somme was heavily shelled today, especially in the neighborhood of Les Boeufs and Le Sars. On our right we continued the consolidation of the ground occupied yesterday. Our artillery and trench mortars successfully bombarded hostile trenches south of Armentieres.

"Yesterday in spite of the gale our aircraft did useful work observing for the artillery. One machine was in the air more than three hours."

VICTORY CLAIMED BY THE GERMANS.

Berlin, November 6.—(By Sayville.) The British and French using the strongest forces made continuous attacks yesterday on the Somme front. The war office announces that the German troops withstood these attacks unshaken.

The statement folows:

"Army group of Crown Prince Rupprecht: In the continuous battle on the Somme the 5th of November was another fighting day of the first class. The British and French, with the strongest forces and employing the whole firing capacity of their artillery made a powerful advance against the front of General von Buelow's army. Troops from different parts of Germany under the command of Generals Baron Marschal von Deimling and Von Garnier withstood the attack unshaken and inflicted a severe defeat on the enemy. Portions of the Strassburg corps and troops from Saxony, Baden, Berlin and Hanseatic and Meiningen infantry regiments won special distinction.

"The allied enemy on the entire front from Lesars to Bouchavesnes, a distance of twenty kilometers along which they attacked, suffered the heaviest, sanguinary losses, and accomplished nothing except a small local gain in the north part of St. Pierre-Vaast wood. Wherever the enemy at other places pushed his way into our line he was immediately ejected and left ten officers, 310 men and booty in our hands. Northeast of Lesars more than seventy prisoners and eleven machine guns were brought in.

"Near Soissons an attack by a weak French detachment was repulsed.

"Army group of the German crown prince: On the right bank of the Meuse (Verdun front) in the Hardaumont sector there was violent artillery and hand grenade fighting."

GERMANS CHARGE, BUT ARE CHECKED BY RUSSIAN FIRE

Petrograd, November 6.—(Via London.)—German forces yesterday several times assumed the offensive on the Russian western front in the region east of the village of Lipitiza-Dolnaia and west of the village of Silaventin with the object of capturing the commanding heights occupied by the Russians. All the German attacks, according to an official statement issued today by the Russian war department, were frustrated by a violent Russian artillery and rifle fire. The battle is still going on.

The announcement follows:

"In the region east of the village of Lipitiza-Dolnaia and west of the village of Silaventin the enemy assumed the offensive several times with the object of capturing commanding heights which we occupied. All the enemy's attacks were frustrated by our violent rifle and artillery fire. The battle continues. In the wooded Carpathians the enemy launched three successive attacks against our troops in the region of Hill 5781, 10 versts south of Mount Pneva. The enemy met with no success, being repulsed by our fire on each occasion.

"In the region of Kirlibaba the enemy attacked the position of one of our gallant young regiments 3½ versts east of that place, but was repelled. The attack was repeated and the enemy broke into our trenches and captured one machine gun, but was driven from the trenches by a counter attack. The machine gun was recaptured.

"In the region south of Mount Lamuntelu our troops, as the result of an engagement, occupied a series of heights capturing eight officers, 386 men, six machine guns, 61 cases of shells and 18 cases containing machine gun belts.

"On the Caucasian front repeated Turkish attempts to attack our detachments southwest of Ognott were arrested by our fire."

WILSON CONFIDENT, AND ALSO HUGHES

Both Retire Early So as to Rise Early and Vote Early. Tumulty Claims 387 Electoral Votes for Wilson.

Long Branch, N. J., November 6.—After going over with President Wilson optimistic messages from all parts of the country, Secretary Tumulty tonight claimed the president would win tomorrow's election and would have 387 votes in the electoral college. He did not give a list of the states on which he based his prediction.

The president spent the day quietly at Shadow Lawn, going out for a short time for a game of golf and receiving a delegation for a few minutes in the afternoon. To those who saw him he expressed complete satisfaction over the prospects for tomorrow's voting.

The president will be up soon after daybreak tomorrow morning to go to Princeton to vote. He will make the trip by automobile, accompanied by Mrs. Wilson, and expects to be back at Shadow Lawn in time for luncheon. In the afternoon he will play golf. In Princeton he will cast his ballot in an old fire engine house and may spend a few minutes visiting old friends.

The president will receive the important returns by telephone from Secretary Tumulty, who will remain in the executive offices in Asbury Park, where elaborate arrangements have been made for receiving election news as speedily as possible. Only Mrs. Wilson and other members of his immediate family will be with the president.

Messages from democratic leaders in virtually every state were received by the president today and tonight predicting victory for him tomorrow. John J. Scully, secretary of the American Association of Masters, Mates and Pilots, telegraphed that his organization has passed resolutions expressing confidence in the president's administration and indorsing his re-election.

A summary of the message received at the executive offices given out here tonight said:

"Many conservative judgments unqualifiedly predict a landslide and greater optimism prevails at Shadow Lawn than at any period of the campaign."

HUGHES CONFIDENT HE'LL BE ELECTED.

New York, November 6.—Confident that he will be elected president tomorrow, Charles E. Hughes went to a theater tonight and retired early after a quiet day, most of which was spent resting. The republican nominee will be up early tomorrow morning to cast his ballot at a polling place in a laundry not far from the hotel where he has established a legal residence since he was nominated. Mr. Hughes had no comment to make tonight on the prospects of victory tomorrow. He takes the position that his campaign ended Saturday night and will have nothing more to say until the result is known.

Mr. Hughes will receive the returns at his hotel tomorrow night by telephone from the headquarters of the republican national committee. With him will be members of his family. He has given instructions that he is to be supplied only with significant figures and not fragmentary results.

The nominee visited republican headquarters this afternoon and shook hands with all the workers.

BOTH SIDES CONFIDENT AS BALLOTING BEGINS

women have the vote this year. The twelve states are Wyoming, Colorado, Utah, Idaho, Washington, California, Arizona, Kansas, Oregon, Nevada, Montana and Illinois. The women in the last named six states have the vote for president for the first time.

The interest political leaders take in this vote can be appreciated when it is seen that the states involved have ninety-one electoral votes, a little more than one-sixth of the electoral college's total vote.

Miss Jeannette Rankin, of Montana, is running for congress on the republican ticket and in California Mrs. Josephine Fernald, of San Francisco, is an aspirant for a seat in congress as a democrat. Another woman candidate for congress is Mrs. Frances Axtell, democrat, in the second Washington district. If they are elected they will be the first women to win seats in the national house of representatives. The progressives of the first Colorado congressional district also nominated a woman, Hattie K. Howard, but she has since withdrawn.

Rival Managers Confident.

Political headquarters here still presented scenes of activity today.

Last reports from the political battlefield were received and final instructions sent. Both the chairmen had little to add to their forecasts issued Saturday night. Republican Chairman Willcox then predicted Hughes would receive at least 100 majority in the electoral college, while Democratic Chairman McCormick gave Mr. Wilson 364 votes. The necessary elective vote in the college is 266.

After reading a batch of telegrams from all parts of the country, Chairman McCormick said:

"If this continued for a few days it would be necessary for me to revise our forecast, because of the roseate reports that are pouring in here."

Both national chairmen reiterated their confidence of victory tomorrow and Republican Chairman Willcox's statement was: "It's all over but the shouting." Chairman McCormick, of the democratic committee received a visit from Secretary of Commerce Redfield, who recently made a tour of Ohio, Indiana, Wisconsin, Minnesota and Illinois. He told the chairman that these states were "undoubtedly safely democratic." Both chairmen said they expected a heavy vote throughout the country.

CHEERING NEWS FOR DEMOCRATS.

Chicago, November 6.—Senator Walsh, manager of western democratic national headquarters, today received a number of telegrams from democratic leaders in western states predicting success for Wilson and Marshall at tomorrow's election.

National Committeeman E. H. Moore, of Ohio, telegraphed that the democratic national ticket would win in that state by a plurality of 62,000.

E. W. McLean, state chairman of North Dakota, sent word that his state was safely democratic.

P. K. Cushing, state chairmen of California, sent a message that the vote in that state would be close, but that the prospects for a democratic victory were bright.

Minnesota is reasonably certain to give its electoral vote to President Wilson, according to a telegram received from D. W. Lawler, democratic candidate for United States senator.

Democratic officials in Utah claimed the state by 12,000 and United States Senator Thompson declared Kansas would go for the democratic national ticket by 20,000.

Washington was claimed for President Wilson by 30,000 in a message sent by W. S. Yearsley, democratic campaign manager for the eastern section of the state. Arizona and New Mexico also were declared to be safely in the democratic column by the party managers in those states.

Alvin T. Hert, manager of western republican national headquarters, today received telegrams from national committeemen, state chairmen and local leaders from every state in the jurisdiction of the western campaign committee, predicting victory for Hughes and Fairbanks at the polls tomorrow.

"I see no reason for changing my forecast of the election issued last Saturday except to add to the republican column several states which in my first statement I said might be doubtful," said Mr. Hert. "I am certain of republican success."

MOOSE VOTES DECIDE RESULT IN NEW YORK.

New York, November 6.—With Governor Whitman and Samuel Seabury, republican and democratic candidates for governor, respectively, making final appeals to the voters of this city, the New York state campaign closed tonight. The ticket of each state ticket joined his campaign managers in professing confidence in the outcome of the balloting.

Because New York is regarded as a pivotal state, chief interest centered in the presidential contest. Voters will be called on, however, to elect a complete state ticket in addition to the governor and United States senator. There also will be chosen a new congressional delegation and a state legislature.

Both sides agreed tonight that the tide would be turned for the national ticket by those who voted as progressives four years ago. The combined Taft and Roosevelt vote in 1912 was 845,580 as compared with 655,573 for Wilson. In Greater New York, which the republicans concede will return a democratic plurality this year, the Taft and Roosevelt vote together exceeded by 3,092 that cast for Wilson.

While the republicans contend the greater part of those who supported Roosevelt four years ago will swing to Hughes this year, the democrats scoff at their claims. It was asserted at democratic state headquarters that a careful canvass of every county indicates that serious inroads will be made by President Wilson on the normal republican pluralities up-state and that the democratic plurality in Greater New York will more than off-set the republican lead down to the Harlem river.

On the eve of tomorrow's election the chairmen of both the republican and democratic state committees claimed victory by at least 100,000.

Each side predicted tonight that it would make gains in the congressional delegation and in the state senate and assembly. The congressional representation now stands republicans 23, democrats 18, socialists 1, progressives 1.

JERSEY CLAIMED BY BOTH PARTIES.

Trenton, N. J., November 6.—With both democratic and republican state chairmen professing entire confidence in the outcome of the election tomorrow the New Jersey state campaign ended late tonight.

Republican State Chairman Bigbee adhered to his prediction that the national and state tickets would carry the state by at least 45,000, while Chairman Grosscup declared Wittpenn would be elected by 15,000 and that President Wilson's margin of victory would be larger than that.

Besides a governor and United States senator there will be elected twelve congressmen.

LAST WORD SPOKEN IN INDIANA CAMPAIGN.

Indianapolis, Ind., November 6.—The last word in one of the most strenuous campaigns in the history of Indiana was said tonight and all over the state leaders in various parties were prepared to devote their energies tomorrow to getting out the vote. Leaders of the two major parties reiterated their opinions that their respective parties will carry Indiana for president and both United States senators.

Interest was centering today in the election of congressmen. In 1912 the democrats elected all thirteen from Indiana, but in 1914 the republicans elected two. The fifth congressional district, where Eugene V. Debs is the socialist candidate, is being watched with particular interest, as Debs' supporters are predicting his election. Republicans tonight were claiming they would elect eleven out of the thirteen congressmen. Democrats predict almost an opposite result.

Vice President Marshall and Charles W. Fairbanks, the republican vice presidential nominee, both will receive the returns at their homes tomorrow night.

The prohibitionists expect to poll a heavier vote than ever before in the state, leaders in that party said tonight.

WOMEN'S VOTE PUZZLES IN ILLINOIS.

Chicago, November 6.—Both republican and democratic campaign managers claimed Illinois by 150,000 on the eve of election tonight.

After receiving final reports from every county in the state both Fred E. Sterling, republican state chairman, and Arthur W. Charles, democratic state chairman, announced they were more confident than ever of success.

It is estimated there are 1,800,000 voters in Illinois, of whom about 600,000 are women who will cast their first vote for president.

Party leaders expect that between 80 and 90 per cent of the registered vote will be cast. The woman's vote is an element in the election which is puzzling the political managers. Both the republican and democratic leaders claim a majority of this vote. The silent vote, also, is worrying the party managers. In all the polls taken by party organizations at least 30 per cent of the voters declined to say how they intended to vote. Both sides claim a majority of this silent vote.

Chicago, which has 808,119 voters registered—504,421 men and 303,698 women—is being watched with apprehension by party leaders, who admit that the presidential candidate who carried the city by a large plurality is almost certain to sweep the state.

The republican managers claim Chicago by 55,000, while the democratic leaders expect to carry the city by 75,000.

The normal republican plurality in the state is between 75,000 and 150,000.

HOTTEST CAMPAIGN CLOSES IN OHIO.

Columbus, Ohio, November 6.—At the close of one of the hottest presidential campaigns ever waged in Ohio, both republican and democratic managers tonight issued statements declaring they would watch for illegal voting tomorrow.

W. L. Finley, chairman of the democratic state committee, instructed county chairmen to be prepared to prosecute any attempt to corrupt the vote.

Charles S. Hatfield, republican chairman, tonight issued a statement saying that the republican state executive committee is just as much in sympathy with any legitimate move to suppress illegitimate voting as the democrats.

No new predictions as to the outcome in Ohio were made today, the democratic managers standing by their prediction of 100,000 plurality for Wilson and the republican leaders claiming with equal confidence a republican victory by "from 60,000 to 100,000."

BOTH SIDES COUNT ON PROGRESSIVES.

New Haven, Conn., November 6.—Both republican and democratic managers tonight reiterated their claims of victory in Connecticut tomorrow by wide margins.

The attitude of 20,000 new voters and trend of the progressive vote are factors which are generally expected to figure largely in determining the outcome. Many of the new voters came from other states to work in munition factories.

Republican leaders asserted tonight that 95 per cent of the progressives of four years ago have returned to the fold, but the democrats dispute this. The progressive votes in 1912 was 34,129. Both parties claim a majority of the new voters.

POLLS GUARDED IN MICHIGAN.

Detroit, Mich., November 12.—Preparations were completed tonight to handle and safeguard the election in Michigan tomorrow, which is expected to bring out the heaviest vote in the state's history. In Detroit federal, state and local authorities, working separately, declared they were prepared to take drastic measures to prevent illegal voting.

The fight to make Michigan dry by passage of a constitutional amendment for prohibition and the counter contest to let each community regulate its liquor traffic under an amendment providing for home rule, were issues which overshadowed even the presidential struggle. Dry and wet forces were each claiming victory. Republican and democratic state leaders reiterated previous claims that their presidential candidate would carry Michigan. Republicans predicted the election of a republican congressman in the thirteen districts. Chairman Stevenson, of the democratic committee, declared that Congressmen Doremus and Beakes would be re-elected, and said he "had hopes" that democratic candidates would win in the fifth, sixth and twelfth districts.

KANSAS COUNTED IN BOTH COLUMNS.

Topeka, Kan., November 6.—The closing hours of the campaign in Kansas today turned from national to state and local questions, the workers for both sides feeling that little more could be done for President Wilson or Charles E. Hughes. Meetings in furtherance of the congressional candidates were held in every district tonight. Democratic leaders say Wilson will carry the state by 10,000 to 12,000, and declare they will elect seven of the eight congressmen. Republicans claim a large majority for the national ticket and all of the congressmen.

HEAVIEST VOTE FOR WISCONSIN.

Milwaukee, Wis., November 6.—Campaign managers in Wisconsin look for the heaviest vote to be cast at tomorrow's election in the history of the state.

A very close contest between Wilson and Hughes is looked for, the state chairman for each candidate claiming the state. While republican leaders were claiming that Robert M. La Follette, for United States senator, and E. L. Philipp, for governor, would win, the democrats declared the state ticket would be carried with the president.

The socialists expect to elect congressmen in the two Milwaukee districts.

BIG VOTE EXPECTED IN MASSACHUSETTS.

Boston, November 6.—Political leaders agreed tonight that if the weather is fair tomorrow, as predicted, Massachusetts will poll the largest vote in its history. Last year a record-breaking vote of 515,000 was cast for governor, but this year the total is expected to reach 525,000.

Governor McCall and Senator Lodge are seeking re-election, opposed by Frederick W. Mansfield and John F. Fitzgerald, democrats.

Republican managers tonight renewed their claims of the state by from 75,000 to 100,000, and that they would elect fourteen out of the sixteen congressmen.

Democratic state committeemen expressed confidence that Wilson would receive a plurality of at least 20,000, and that the democratic candidates for United States senator and the state ticket would be elected by pluralities ranging from 5,000 to 15,000.

POLLS WATCHED IN WEST VIRGINIA.

Charleston, W. Va., November 6.—Representatives of the department of justice have been assigned for duty at precincts in southern West Virginia tomorrow to prevent fraudulent voting, according to an announcement made here tonight by W. G. Barnhart, United States district attorney.

Pre-election interest is intense and political leaders predict the heaviest vote ever polled in West Virginia. Republican and democratic state chairmen reiterated tonight that their parties would carry the state, the former claiming a plurality of 20,000 and the latter from 22,000 to 25,000.

MISSOURI VOTE WILL BE HEAVY.

St. Louis, November 6.—A heavy vote is expected throughout Missouri tomorrow. The registration in St. Louis is more than 173,000—the highest in the history of the city.

Republican leaders say this indicates a republican plurality in St. Louis which they count on to overcome the democratic vote in the rural districts.

Both democratic and republican leaders tonight claimed the state. Political parades were held in St. Louis and other cities today. The fact that prohibition is to be voted on is expected to bring out a heavy vote.

PROHI FIGHT IN NEBRASKA.

Omaha, Neb., November 6.—Interest in the national and state tickets and the prohibitory amendment with fair weather predicted for the election will bring out Nebraska's largest vote, it was predicted by political leaders tonight.

The "wets" and "drys" ended their vigorous campaign tonight with both equally confident of victory. Democratic leaders claim the state by a majority of 25,000, while the republicans claim Hughes will lead by from 10,000 to 20,000.

Interest in the United States senatorial race is keen with both candidates, Senator Gilbert M. Hitchcock and John L. Kennedy both confident of success.

INTEREST KEEN IN CALIFORNIA.

San Francisco, November 6.—Indications were apparent today of a tremendous vote throughout California tomorrow, according to political leaders. Issues which seemed to outline themselves most sharply on the eve of the election were Hughes or Wilson, wet or dry, and Governor Hiram W. Johnson, republican, or George H. Hatton, democrat, for the United States senate.

The headquarters of the prohibition forces here predicted a landslide for amendment No. 2, restricting the sale of liquor in public drinking places and retail stores and a winning vote of 500,000 for complete prohibition.

Both republicans and democrats are claiming the state.

NIGHT CAMPAIGN IN COLORADO.

Denver, Colo., November 6.—Both political parties sent their speakers whirling through the state tonight to bring to an end the campaign in Colorado. Governor George A. Carlson, republican, and Julius C. Gunter, his democratic opponent, both delivered speeches.

"Wilson will carry Colorado by 40,000," said the democratic chairman. "Wilson and Gunter will sweep the entire ticket with them."

"Carlson will win by at least 30,000 votes," said the republican chairman. "He will run ahead of his ticket, but Hughes will carry the state by a substantial majority."

PROHI ISSUE IN MARYLAND.

Baltimore, Md., November 6.—Democratic and republican state chairmen tonight claimed Maryland. While the democrats expressed confidence that they would elect congressmen from four districts and placed the other two in the doubtful column, the republicans said there was a good chance for them to at least divide the congressional delegation.

Republicans claimed that factional differences among the democrats will contribute to the election to the United States senate of Dr. Joseph I. France over Congressman David J. Lewis, democrat.

The prohibition question will be voted on in the remaining eleven "wet" units in the state, including the cities of Baltimore, Annapolis, Cumberland, Hagerstown, Frederick and Havre de Grace.

BOTH SIDES ANXIOUS. IN WASHINGTON.

Seattle, Wash., November 6.—Former Governor Henry McBride, republican candidate for governor, addressed a large meeting here tonight and Governor Ernest Lister, democratic candidate, spoke at five meetings. This eleventh-hour campaigning was regarded as showing anxiety on both sides.

The vote tomorrow, regardless of weather, will be larger than ever before, it is believed. The increase of registration of women is noteworthy.

The senatorial candidates, Miles Poindexter, republican, and George Turner, democrat, both of Spokane, completed their campaigning at home.

CLOSE VOTE IN UTAH.

Salt Lake City, Utah, November 6.—The campaign in Utah closed tonight with both sides claiming a sweeping victory, while party leaders were admitting that the election would be close.

WESLEY MEMORIAL WILL BE A SCHOOL FOR MISSION WORK

Dr. A. M. Hughlett, presiding elder of the Atlanta district, and president of the Methodist Ministers' association here, announced at a meeting of the ministers held Monday that it is planned to convert the Wesley Memorial building into a mission training school for young women who desire to prepare themselves to do mission work in both home and foreign fields.

The building was formerly occupied by the Candler School of Theology, now occupying a building on the Emory university campus, in Druid Hills. It will provide a dormitory as well as lecture rooms, and will be made comfortable and commodious.

The school will have its own faculty, and will indicate a notable step in Atlanta toward adequate mission study.

Further plans will be carried before the Methodist conference for completion.

GRANITEVILLE MFG. CO. MAY BE REORGANIZED

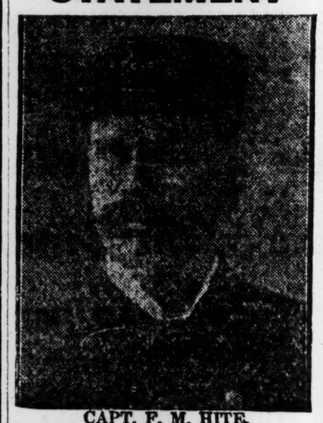

Augusta, Ga., November 6.—(Special.) The stockholders of the Graniteville Manufacturing company met this afternoon and considered two propositions for the reorganization of the company. One plan, suggested by H. M. Dibble, of Aiken, S. C., would net the concern the sum of $900,000 in cash, by the issuance of first mortgage bonds, and company notes, and would retire all the outstanding indebtedness. Another plan suggested, providing for issuance of a less amount of first mortgage bonds and providing for the sale of $200,000 of preferred stock at par, would net the company $650,000, leaving outstanding debts of $200,000 to be otherwise provided for.

A committee is to consider the two plans in detail and report to the stockholders at an early date. Provided either of the plans shall be accepted, it is expected that the receivership of the mills will be terminated and the property preserved for the stockholders.

Four different sets of republican tickets appeared on the streets yesterday, each bearing the name of a different candidate for tax collector.—(adv.)

FIRE CAPTAIN'S STATEMENT

CAPT. F. M. HITE.

Roman Chemical Co.,
Nashville, Tenn.

Dear Sirs: Having taken BOWERS' PREPARATION with such good results, I wish to inform you what effect it had upon me. Several years ago my physician treated me for indigestion and liver trouble, and was later told by them that an operation would be necessary. I took all kinds of medicines with no results. Two weeks ago my condition was such that I was forced to allow the physicians to hold a consultation, at which the consensus of opinion was that an operation would be the only relief for me. My mind was made up to have same performed, and had decided to go to an infirmary, but a friend heard of my intentions and advised me not to go to the expense, trouble and probably the loss of my life, when a cure could be effected by the use of BOWERS' PREPARATION. I took a bottle which swept a greenish mass from my system, including a number of genuine gall stones. Thank heaven, I took my friend's advice about your wonderful Stomach and Liver Preparation.

Symptoms in my case were biliousness, clouded brain, coated tongue, sluggish on rising in the morning, had gas on my stomach, and oftentimes had pains in my side and back.

I write this hoping it may reach some person who is suffering from stomach and liver trouble. Am employed by the Nashville Fire Department and will always recommend your medicine.

Hutcheson's Charges False and Malicious, Says L. J. Grossman

In one of the briefest papers ever filed in the superior court in like proceedings, Leonard J. Grossman, Monday evening made answer to the $100,000 suit filed against him, admitting only those allegations in Hutcheson's petition which set out that the defendant is a licensed member of the bar, and denying in one short sentence all of Hutcheson's allegations contained in thirty-two paragraphs.

Mr. Grossman's answer contains in all but three sentences, his position being stated in the concluding words of his answer: "Because of his (Leonard J. Grossman's) very great respect for this honorable court and the dignity of his profession he declines to make retort in kind to the knowingly false and malcious allegations contained in plaintiff Hutcheson's petition."

The answer is filed subject to an exhaustive demurrer, resting upon alleged fundamental legal principles, principal among which is that "the acts, charges, allegations and averments complained of were contained in regular pleadings filed in a court of competent jurisdiction, which are and were pertinent to the relief sought and were sufficient to prevent a recovery by Hutcheson in the suit in which said pleadings were filed."

The demurrer charges Hutcheson's petition is scandalous, each allegation being impertinent and immaterial, and the conclusion of the pleader declares Hutcheson, without sufficient allegations of fact to support the same.

KNOTT-CATTS FIGHT HAS STIRRED FLORIDA

Interest in Outcome of Contest Has Overshadowed All Others.

Jacksonville, Fla., November 6.—The political campaign in Florida closed tonight with enthusiastic meetings of the adherents of the several candidates for governor. The stage is now set for the voting, which will begin at 8 o'clock Tuesday morning and a heavy vote is expected. There are four sets of presidential electors on the ballot—democratic, republican, socialist and prohibition; and tnere are five candidates for governor—democrat, republican, socialist, prohibition and independent.

In the contest for governor, the managers of both Knott and Catts proclaim victory, each claiming a large plurality. Interest in this contest is overshadowing all others. Owing to the extreme length of the ticket, making the count slow, it probably will be Wednesday night before the result of the contest is known.

Fiery Blood Disorders Checked By S. S. S.

Nature's Remedy For Blood Troubles.

The purifying properties of Nature's great remedy have made "S. S. S. for the Blood" a household saying. Thousands today enjoying perfect health owe their recovery from blood or skin diseases to this universally used blood purifier. S. S. S. is made entirely from roots, herbs and barks, which possess cleansing and healing ingredients. You cannot be well when your blood is impure; you lack strength and energy natural with health; your complexion becomes pale and sallow; your vitality is weakened. When waste or refuse matter, which Nature intends should be thrown off, is left in the system, it is absorbed into the blood and boils, pimples, rashes, blotches and other eruptions of the skin appear.

S. S. S. goes into the circulation and removes every particle of blood taint or poison of every character. All skin diseases and eruptions pass away, and the smooth, clear skin, glowing with health, shows that the body is being nourished by rich, pure blood. Rheumatism, Catarrh, Scrofula, Contagious Blood Poison, all are deep-seated blood disorders, and for their treatment nothing equals S. S. S. Get S. S. S. at any drug store. An Eleventh Hour Trick

JIM FULLER

To the Voters of Fulton County:

Somebody is lying about Jim Fuller coming out of the race.

Two of my opponents have concentrated their fight for the Tax Collector's race on me, thereby acknowledging that if Lucien Harris is in danger of being defeated, that I am the man that is going to defeat him, and I will give you a few facts to bear out this statement.

Up until Friday night, it was generally conceded that I had Mr. Harris beat overwhelmingly, the opposition considered the situation desperate, something must be done—something was done.

At the eleventh hour two candidates were drawn into the race. Considering the fact that Mr. Harris' support was of a nature that it would surely stick by him, isn't it reasonable to believe that this was done for the purpose of muddying the waters, and dividing my votes, and electing Mr. Harris?

Men have been going all over town tearing down my pictures and telling people that I am out of the race. Is this a manly way to wage a fight? I consider it cowardly and a stab in the back.

In spite of the dirty way that I am being fought, I am absolutely confident that I will get more votes than all my opponents put together.

Respectfully,

JIM FULLER.

MRS. ADAMS MAY FACE MURDER TRIAL BEFORE WEEK'S END

Macon, Ga., November 6.—(Special.)—Because of the illness of Judge Henry A. Mathews at his home at Fort Valley the November term of the Bibb superior court was not convened here today. Judge Mathews probably will be able to come to Macon tomorrow.

The grand jury will be selected and charged, and will probably take up the first thing the case of Mrs. Mattie Stokes Adams, charged with the murder of Captain E. J. Spratling, of the Fifth regiment.

There is some doubt about Mrs. Adams being tried at the present term, though Attorney W. D. McNeil, her counsel, will insist that the case be called.

MARIST NIGHT SCHOOL SHORTHAND

HAIR COMING OUT?

Dandruff causes a feverish irritation of the scalp, the hair roots shrink, loosen and then the hair comes out fast. To stop falling hair at once and rid the scalp of every particle of dandruff, get a 25-cent bottle of Danderine at any drug store, pour a little in your hand and rub it into the scalp. After a few applications the hair stops coming out and you can't find any dandruff.

YOUR SICK CHILD IS CONSTIPATED! LOOK AT TONGUE

If cross, feverish or bilious give "California Syrup of Figs."

No matter what ails your child, a gentle, thorough laxative should always be the first treatment given.

If your little one is out-of-sorts, half-sick, isn't resting, eating and acting naturally—look, Mother! see if tongue is coated. This is a sure sign that it's little stomach, liver and bowels are clogged with waste. When cross, irritable, feverish, stomach sour, breath bad or has stomach-ache, diarrhoea, sore throat, full of cold, give a teaspoonful of "California Syrup of Figs," and in a few hours all the constipated poison, undigested food and sour bile gently moves out of its little bowels without griping, and you have a well, playful child again.

Mothers can rest easy after giving this harmless "fruit laxative," because it never fails to cleanse the little one's liver and bowels and sweeten the stomach and they dearly love its pleasant taste. Full directions for babies, children of all ages and for grown-ups printed on each bottle.

Beware of counterfeit fig syrups. Ask your druggist for a 50-cent bottle of "California Syrup of Figs;" then see that it is made by the "California Fig Syrup Company."

All Atlanta Invited To Election Returns Of The Constitution

Come to Five Points Tonight and See Quickest and Most Accurate News of National, State and Local Races.

All Atlanta is invited to be The Constitution's guest tonight, to come to Five Points, where the crowds will be and where there will be a genuine jubilee in celebration of today's election results. National, state and local returns will be given. All Fulton county will be interested in the tax collector's race.

For years The Constitution's stereopticon returns at Five Points have been an institution in downtown Atlanta whenever men go to the polls to vote in an election of local or national import.

Always The Constitution crowds are the biggest, liveliest, best-served, and the service given is quick, accurate, entertaining. The crowds pack the streets and sidewalks for blocks. From the Five Points district proper the great masses of humanity extend up Marietta street as far as the eye can see the slides flashed upon the enormous screen over Peachtree street.

The returns are brought into The Constitution over private leased and Associated Press wires, then flashed over private wires to operators in the stereopticon booth at Five Points. There they are instantly transmitted to glass slides and projected upon the screen.

Statistical and political experts on The Constitution's staff will serve patrons of the paper with the quickest compilations, of figures as well as with accurate views of the situation. In addition there will be comic sidelights cartooned by the inimitable Lewis Gregg.

VETO OF MAYOR BEATEN.

Council Upholds South Pryor Street Paving Award.

The mayor's veto of the contract for repaving South Pryor street from Garnett street to Georgia avenue was overridden by council Monday afternoon. It will now go to the aldermanic board for their consideration. They will pass on it Thursday. The contract was let some time ago by council to the Southern Paving and Construction company, of Chattanooga, whose bid was about $25,000.

The motion to override was made by Councilman McCord and seconded by Alderman Kelley. The vote was by roll call and stood 16 for the paper and one against. The member voting against its passage was Councilman Ashley.

The mayor vetoed the contract on the ground that it did not provide for the laying of the water mains by the water department to care for the fire hydrants and because he said it was running over into the work of the next year's council. Councilman McCord stated that he had consulted the city attorney on the legality of the contract and had been assured that it was legal in every way. The city's part of the expense is to be met by the county.

Woman Seriously Hurt When Auto Strikes Hog On National Highway

Cordele, Ga., November 6.—(Special.) Mrs. J. S. Dickson, wife of a well-known cotton warehouseman of Cordele, had both arms broken and probably suffered internal injuries this morning when an automobile in which she was riding struck a hog and turned turtle on the national highway, near Pinehurst, with a Cordele party. Mrs. Dickson was pinned beneath the car. She remained in this position for only a few minutes before it was lifted from her body by other members of the party.

Mr. Dickson, Mr. and Mrs. William Greer and Mrs. Forrester, a sister of Mrs. Greer, were thrown clear of the car and escaped with minor bruises. Mr. Greer was driving the machine, and traveling about 20 miles an hour. The party was en route to the state fair.

The car was damaged little and the party returned to Cordele, bringing Mrs. Dickson to the local hospital.

MUST WHIP GERMANY, SAYS GENERAL'S WIDOW

Savannah, Ga., November 6.—(Special.)—Predicting that England will never win the present world conflict until she has Germany "so thoroughly whipped that she cannot afford to break treaties," Mrs. William Washington Gordon, age 82 years, widow of Confederate General W. W. Gordon, who built the Central of Georgia, arrived home in Savannah today. She had been on a visit to her daughter, Mrs. [illegible] M. Low, of London.

Mrs. Low is the founder of the Girl Scouts of America.

Mrs. Gordon has been in England for the past five months.

WARM FIGHT PREDICTED IN LOWNDES COUNTY

Valdosta, Ga., November 6.—(Special.) The Lowndes county good government committee formed here this week, is going after the political scalp of Sheriff J. E. Gornto, and, incidentally, those of other county and city officials. A moral and political combination has been formed with the object of the sheriff's defeat at the general election today.

The committee charges that the sheriff has been flagrantly neglectful of his duties and has knowingly permitted gambling, whisky selling and the operation of lewd houses in the city. Sheriff Gornto's friends say that the fight on him under a moral guise is really a straight-out political move and an unblushing attack on the white primary system in this county. They are standing by him and predict his election Tuesday.

NEW COUNCIL WILL BE ASKED TO GIVE $100,000 TO FAIR

One of the first things the city finance committee for 1917 will have to consider will be an appropriation of $100,000 for Lakewood, according to officials of the Southeastern Fair association.

Asa G. Candler, mayoralty nominee, favors a larger appropriation by the city for the fair during 1917. President Ivan Allen and members of the association feel sure the city will make a substantial subscription.

Under the plans now contemplated $75,000 will be used by the association for the erection of a new building. The remainder of the city's gift will be used for enlarging the stock and swine buildings. The proposed building will be 400 by 100 feet. It is proposed to make it a composite building, with all conveniences for the public, including a branch postoffice and bank, pressrooms, telephones, police headquarters for the grounds and emergency hospital station.

County to Stop Work On Paving Gordon St. Unless City Gives Aid

Unless the city furnishes sufficient material for the paving of Gordon street, the county will remove its force of convicts today at noon. This is the intention of the commissioners as expressed by the public works committee at a meeting with a number of citizens of West End Monday at noon to discuss criticism of the county authorities for delay in this project.

The county lays the blame at the door of the city, alleging that it agreed to furnish material, but has failed to do so. The commissioners stated that the county would have finished the job six months ago had sufficient material been supplied.

The material now on hand will complete the project to Dunn street, leaving the two blocks from Dunn to Lee streets still unpaved.

Throughout the house ferns and a profusion of roses and lilies were used artistically.

The centerpiece of the handsomely-appointed table was a large plateau of La France roses and valley lilies.

Changes in Suffrage Party.

With the recent convention in Atlanta of the Equal Suffrage Party of Georgia, and the election of a president and several other officers from Augusta, the state headquarters have been moved to Augusta, one of the strongest suffrage cities in the state.

Atlanta is not left without distinguished representation, however, since Mrs. Emily C. McDougald, who retired from the presidency on account of constitutional limitation of service, was made chairman of the campaign committee for Georgia, and she will have able co-operation from Atlanta members of the organization.

Among these latter is Mrs. Murray Hubbard, recently of Kentucky, where she was the vice chairman of the campaign committee, headed by Mrs. Desha Breckenridge, who credits Mrs. Hubbard with some of the most valuable work done in a brilliant state-wide campaign, large in results.

The new president is Mrs. Lindsey S. Arrington, of Augusta, head of the Young Women's Christian association there and a leader in philanthropic work and that of the Methodist church. Mrs. S. B. C. Morgan, vice president, is one of the most prominent women in the patriotic organizations and in the establishment of educational advantages for the mountain youth of Georgia. Mrs. C. C. Harrold, of Macon, second vice president; Miss Julia Flisch, of Augusta, corresponding secretary; Mrs. Rufus Brown, of Augusta, recording secretary; Miss Annie Wright, of Augusta, treasurer, and Miss Annie Griffin, of Columbus, press chairman, are all leaders, not only in the suffrage movement, but in other activities of women, their selection being influenced to some extent by the well-known fact that those who are accustomed to organized work and are interested in what is going on around them, can always find time for one more responsibility, and do it with system.

Tozart, Noted Artist, To Cartoon Election At Piedmont Theater

Manager Hardcastle, of the Piedmont theater, has made generous preparations for tonight in the way of election news, and patrons at the Piedmont will be furnished an evening of entertainment and information that is commendable. Between acts and as fast as election news is received directly through the Western Union, the bulletins will be read from the stage.

The services of "Tozart," the vagabond artist, who was one of the headliners on last week's program, have been secured to cartoon the leading characters in the national elections. He will include in his work pictures of local political characters who are in the public eye. Tozart is a finished cartoonist, having contributed his efforts in elections all over the United States and Europe as well. The theater will remain open until the definite result of the national election is known, no matter if it is 3 or 4 o'clock in the morning, and music and entertainment will go on until that time.

Mr. Hardcastle has also arranged to fire bombs announcing the result from the roof of the theater. Three bombs will be fired if Wilson is elected, and four if Hughes wins.

PROVIDE FIRE ESCAPES AT TWO SCHOOL HOUSES

Alderman Armistead introduced in council Monday a resolution setting aside $1,200 from any fund that might be available for the purpose of constructing fire escapes on the Williams Street school and the Girls' High school. The paper was passed with no opposition.

Alderman Armistead urged that the paper be approved, stating that the present condition of the two buildings was so dangerous that in the event of a fire he feared many of the children would be killed or seriously injured in trying to escape.

He was supported by Councilman Ashley and Councilman Mincey, both of whom stated that the buildings were unsafe without adequate fire escapes.

MR. GARNER, RECENT GRADUATE DRAUGHON'S BUSINESS COLLEGE, MAKES RAPID ADVANCEMENT

Advises Young People Who Desire Business Success to First Acquire a Thorough Knowledge of Shorthand and Bookkeeping at Draughon's Atlanta College.

B. D. GARNER.

Mr. Garner writes Draughon's Business College an interesting letter about his advancement and success in business since leaving school. The following extract from his letter is self-explanatory:

Knowing that you are interested in the success of your students, I am writing to let you know that I am delighted with the position you secured for me, with J. P. Keeton & Co., dealers in cotton seed products. I have already had an increase in salary and still have an opportunity for further advancement. Since I left school I have held three different positions and every change I have made has meant an increase in salary, or more pleasant surroundings.

I would certainly advise any young person whose goal is business success to first acquire a thorough knowledge of shorthand and bookkeeping at Draughon's, where the system is thorough and instructors are capable and attentive. No school of its kind has more congenial surroundings, nor better facilities for placing its students in positions.

The tone of Mr. Garner's letter rings in harmony with many other letters which the college receives, almost daily from its successful students. Draughon's has the reputation of sending out students who know how to do things. Ask business men where they get their high-class office help, and you will attend "Draughon."

AUDITORIUM VOTED FOR MASS MEETING

Committee Allows Use of Building for Political Gathering Despite the Action Taken at Recent Meeting.

The movement to close the Auditorium to political meetings was given a backset yesterday when the Auditorium committee of council, at a called meeting Monday afternoon just after council adjourned, voted to allow the use of the building next Thursday night by the strikers and their friends and any others who might be interested in the gathering. A mass meeting is to be held for the purpose of getting a candidate to offer for the office of mayor against Asa G. Candler, nominee, in the general city election to be held December 6.

This decision is of more than ordinary interest because at the last meeting of the Auditorium committee it was voted not to allow the use of the building for any sort of political gathering. This resolution was introduced in council Monday afternoon and on motion was referred to the ordinance committee for further consideration. The reference to the ordinance committee will put off action on the matter by council for another two weeks.

Present at the meeting Monday were Councilmen Farlinger, Bell, Reynolds, George P. Freeman.

Hardy Teat, one of the principal men in the movement of the strikers, addressed the committee and asked that they allow the use of the building. Councilman Freeman stated that he felt the request should be granted in as much as the men who were asking were tax payers and citizens and had a perfect right as such to the building provided they did it no physical damage.

It is expected by those interested that the crowd present at the meeting will be told of the decision of C. W. McClure, who is mentioned as the probable candidate. He is expected to be in the city in time for the meeting and will probably be called on to make known his intention at that time.

NOTED SOPRANO WILL SING HERE THURSDAY NIGHT

Julia Heinrich, the noted soprano of the Metropolitan Opera company, will give a song recital in the Atlanta theater on the evening of November 9. This announcement, made today, will be received with interest and gratification by the music lovers of Atlanta, as Miss Heinrich is recognized as one of the foremost sopranos of the present time, and her recitals always attract widespread attention among the most cultured musicians. While much of her time has been occupied by her appearance at the Metropolitan opera house she now has the opportunity to make brief tours to musical centers outside of New York, and it is one of these respites from her operatic work that has enabled her to come to Atlanta for a recital.

Music critics have accorded Miss Heinrich an exalted position among operatic sopranos and have proclaimed her absolutely supreme among the classic lieder singers of the present time. Sensitive to all moods that song is capable of inducing, and having a control of expression that enables her to match her voice to each of them, her interpretations are sincere, sympathetic and invariably artistic and inspiring. Her voice has all of that depth and volume that are essential to singing the most trying operatic roles and yet so superb is her control of it that she can sing the most simple and delicate examples of the lieder with an art that is consummate and unrivaled among present day artists. Her work is truly a revelation of the possibilities of the voice.

The recital to be given here by Miss Heinrich is in the nature of a private hearing and admission will be by invitation only.

CONSPIRACY IS CHARGED.

Four Placed on Trial in the Federal Court.

Charged with conspiracy to conceal from the trustee in bankruptcy certain assets of the Blue Seal Ice Cream company, Atlanta, last year, L. Campbell, G. Algers, Gus Hanjaras and Charles Kirakopoulas, alias Charles Economy, were placed on trial in the United States district court yesterday. Owing to the fact that the court has recessed over election day, the trial will be resumed Wednesday morning and probably will be completed the same day.

The government alleges that L. Campbell was proprietor of an establishment for the manufacture of ice cream and supplies and candies, and voluntarily asked to be adjudged a bankrupt August 10, 1915. His petition was granted November 22 of that year by P. H. Adams, referee in bankruptcy, and Franklin P. Ellis was appointed trustee in bankruptcy for the estate.

Reports had been made to the trustee that a conspiracy on the part of all of the defendants in the present action had been entered into to conceal from the trustee assets valued at about $4,000. Monday J. M. George, a deputy marshal of the municipal court, testified that when he went to the home of Algers, brother-in-law of Campbell, with a search warrant in quest of the alleged concealed property, he was threatened with shooting. However, he said, he persisted in his search and found a large number of freezers and considerable other paraphernalia.

MACON JEWELERS ASK HEAVY AUCTION LICENSE

Macon, Ga., November 6.—(Special.)—Declaring that itinerant jewelry merchants are hurting their business, the jewelers of Macon have gotten together and framed a petition to be presented to the mayor and council tomorrow night asking that a license of $1,000 be assessed against jewelry auctioneers, and that no one who has not been engaged in the jewelry business in Macon for a period of two years be permitted to conduct an auction sale.

As a penalty the jewelers want a fine of $300 or sixty days, or both, provided for.

OSCAR P. STROUD ENDS LIFE WITH REVOLVER

Prominent McDonough Man Fires Bullet Through Brain.

McDonough, Ga., November 6.—(Special.)—Oscar P. Stroud, a prominent resident of McDonough, today shot himself through the head with a heavy caliber pistol at his home, and in the room adjoining that in which his wife and brother, Jim Stroud, were sitting. No cause for the act is known, except that for some days Mr. Stroud had seemed to be despondent.

A few moments before the shot was fired Mr. Stroud was sitting in a room of his home talking to his wife and brother. He left, and a moment later the report of the pistol was heard. When the frightened family of the man reached his side he had expired.

Mr. Stroud is survived by his wife, six children, the oldest of whom is a girl of 16, and three brothers—Jim Stroud of McDonough, Walter Stroud of Butts county and Will Stroud of Henry county.

Mr. Stroud was a prominent warehouseman of this section. Funeral services will probably be held Tuesday afternoon at the cemetery here.

Athens Primary November 22.

Athens, Ga., November 6.—(Special.) The city primary election for Athens has been called for November 22. There is no mayor to elect this year, R. O. Arnold, the youngest mayor of any city of this size in the south, holding over for another year.

Candidates for council are announced: B. F. Woods, O. R. Dobbs, Dr. H. R. Palmer, George W. Joiner, R. T. Wright. Other announcements are expected.

Once upon a time, only a few months after this terrible world war had begun, Private Bailey, a soldier in the ranks had stood for days in the trenches "somewhere in France." He asked for it in his next letter home. A large bottle was immediately sent him and a few applications killed the pain, once more he was able to stand the severe exposure. THE CALL OF TODAY.

Every Georgian who can vote owes a duty to his state today. It is easily performed, but as urgent as it is plain. It is simply: Go to the polls and vote the democratic ticket from top to bottom.

Of course, there can be no doubt about how Georgia's electoral vote will be cast. It is only a question of popular majority, and the necessity is to make this majority as overwhelming as possible.

The main point to think about today is that this state cannot afford to do anything else than place its stamp of approval, in vehement fashion, upon the national administration of the last three and a half years.

Individuals may not in their hearts subscribe to every act of the president—although the body of the democracy can and does; but these acts should be viewed in the aggregate. Let the individual voter today step off a few paces and view the democratic record as he would scrutinize an oil painting—let him view it as a whole, from the 4th of March, 1913, to the present day.

Where can one be found who, having thus thought about it, can square any other than a vote of approval with his conscience?

Let every man who can, vote today—and vote for four years more of the full dinner pail and government administered upon the standards of justice and humanity.

THE USUAL ENDING.

No matter, it seems, how sane, how solid nor how well established may be certain principles of human rights and law and justice, even the most fundamental of them are attacked from time to time, and the courts are as frequently called upon to reaffirm and sustain them.

The most recent case in point had to do with an attempt to deny the inherent right of a speedy public trial by an impartial jury of the vicinage to the editor—manager of The New Orleans Times-Picayune, under indictment for criminal libel. The alleged libel consisted in an expose of certain conditions existing in the insane asylum at Jackson, La. The superintendent of the institution brought suit for $100,000 damages, alleging criminal libel. Nor did he rest there, but he went into three or more Louisiana parishes (counties) in which, of course, the defendant newspaper has circulation, and was instrumental in having indictments found against the original defendants—in all, about forty indictments in the various parishes.

The defendants answered by affirming the truthfulness of—and therefore, the nonexistence of libel in—the charges in question, but they attacked the bringing of indictments outside of the vicinage of the newspaper plant, whence the libel, if any, had issued.

This brought the case down hard upon one of the oldest and most widely recognized fundamentals of jurisprudence; but, nevertheless, the judge of the district court overruled the pleas, which threw them up to the supreme court of the state for decision There, as was to be expected, the old, time-honored doctrine—that a defendant's life or his liberty may be jeopardized only once for the same offense, and that any person accused of crime is entitled to a speedy trial by an impartial jury of his peers and among his own people—unless the venue shall be changed for cause—was reaffirmed. But at that, the chief justice of the court dissented to the majority opinion!

The whole case was dismissed and the defendants discharged, October 30.

The thing about this case which makes it interesting to the public at large is not so much the rebuke it administers to the management of the Louisiana hospital for the insane and to the lower courts of the state which subscribed themselves to this archaic attempt at multiplicity of prosecutions for one accusation—nor the splendid tribute paid to The Times-Picayune in the result—but the fact that once more this old constitutional safeguard has been so emphatically reaffirmed.

Possibly—probably—efforts to override this firmly-grounded principle may be essayed by near-sighted litigants in the future just as they have been in the past, and undoubtedly lawyers will be found who will take their cases, and perhaps inferior court judges who will sustain them; but the end will always be the same.

THE PEACHTREE BATTLEFIELD.

We publish elsewhere on this page an interesting communication from Thomas B. Felder, who—referring to the admirable article of Mrs. W. L. Peel, in Sunday's Constitution, urging the marking and beautifying of the historic battlefields around Atlanta—reminds us of the statement of Governor Ralston, of Indiana, emphasizing the importance of the plan so eloquently urged by Mrs. Peel.

In proportion to the total number of federal soldiers engaged Indiana was perhaps more largely represented in the battle of Peachtree Creek than in any other battle of the civil war.

On this battleground Benjamin H. Harrison, afterwards president of the United States, was brevetted as brigadier general for gallantry, and Walter Q. Gresham, afterwards secretary of state and justice of the supreme court, was shot through the thigh, bearing the wound through life. Many citizens of Indiana afterwards distinguished in the public life of that state were prominent participants in this battle. From year to year many Indiana visitors, former participants in that historic battle, come to go over the battlefield, which is almost impossible of access.

Mr. Felder's statement is borne out by the direct testimony of Governor Ralston, who several months ago wrote a letter to Chairman Winn, of the board of commissioners of Fulton county, stating that if the county would open an avenue through this battlefield the valor of Indiana troops in that engagement would be adequately commemorated by that state. Governor Ralston's term of office expires on January 1, and with it his authority to act.

Acting upon his original suggestion, the board of county commissioners asked for donations of a 100-foot right of way from Peachtree Road to the Howell Mill Road, and later on accepted deeds to what is now known as Peachtree Battle Avenue, which goes through or overlooks every inch of that historic battlefield.

How important it is, therefore, that actual work should begin while Governor Ralston is still in position to take such steps as will bring similar action from many other states.

WALKER'S GOOD SERVICE.

In giving freely of his time during the last six weeks and applying to the forces of Georgia his vim as a partisan and his skill as an organizer, John D. Walker, as chairman for Georgia of the finance committee for the democratic national campaign, succeeded in raising between $7,000 and $8,000 more than Georgia ever before had contributed to aid in the election of a democratic president. And in the doing of this Mr. Walker has rendered a splendid party service.

While Mr. Walker has been in the position of master of the funds-raising forces of the state, and it was to him and his untiring efforts that the national party treasurer has looked for Georgia's just share of the party's expense money, along with him praise is due his able, efficient and just as energetic and unselfish lieutenants, who have been working tirelessly and with good purpose in every city and town in every county in the state.

The result has attested how well the work has been done; and it is to the lasting glory of the democracy and of Georgia.

Just such disposition toward self-abnegation in the duty of the hour is the life and the strength of the party. "Georgia has done her duty," and Chairman Walker is entitled to full credit for what he has done to that end.

A REASONABLE AMENDMENT.

At the recent session of the legislature a constitutional amendment was recommended by the general assembly allowing the counties of Clarke, Floyd, Muscogee and Sumter to arrange for the payment of the judges of the superior courts of the circuits to which these belong a salary of $5,000 per year.

Under the provisions of this amendment the above-named counties assume the obligation of paying the additional $2,000 to the judges of their respective circuits out of the treasuries of these counties; in other words, it is a request upon the part of these counties to be allowed to supplement the present salary of $3,000 by an additional $2,000 to be paid by themselves, just as has been already done in Fulton county.

In voting for this constitutional amendment voters outside of these counties assume no additional burden of taxation, but are merely permitting the people of the counties named to pay their judges the increased salary if they desire so to do.

We are quite sure that if the voters understand these facts there will be no opposition to the amendment.

Felder Warmly Commends Mrs. W. L. Peel's Letter On Atlanta's Battlefields

Editor Constitution: I have read with much pleasure, interest and appreciation the superb and instructive article written by Mrs. William Lawson Peel and reproduced in your Sunday's issue under the caption "Historic Atlanta."

I am reminded by this article that Atlanta is likely to lose the $100,000 monument referred to as having been officially promised by Governor Ralston, of Indiana, to County Commissioner Tom Winn, unless the county commissioners proceed with all possible dispatch to meet the requirements of the governor, viz., work out Peachtree Battle avenue north of Peachtree road. This road traverses a section of the county that witnessed some of the fiercest and most sanguinary fighting of the war between the states for the capture of Atlanta, the brunt of which was borne on the union side by soldiers of the state of Indiana officered by some of that state's most illustrious sons. Among others might be mentioned General Benjamin H. Harrison, afterwards president of the United States; General Walter Q. Gresham, afterwards secretary of state, who received a desperate wound on the bank of Peachtree creek.

Governor Ralston, about a year ago, asked if any progress had been made in working out this highway. Upon being told that the work had not commenced he expressed the hope that this highway would be worked out before his term of office expired, as his successor might not feel the same interest in the matter that he felt. His term expires January 1 next.

If the state of Indiana is willing to spend this much money for the purposes stated, it stands to reason that other states whose sons participated in this battle would follow suit.

It is also true that thousands of tourists from the states that furnished the soldiers, whose deeds these monuments will commemorate, would stop over in Atlanta to visit the scenes where the valor of their ancestors was displayed.

Is there any way to estimate in dollars and cents the value in the coming years of this highway to our city and county? Can anything be more important both to the city and county than to have this work commenced and completed at the earliest possible moment?

THOMAS B. FELDER.

Prosperity and High Prices.

(From The Christian Science Monitor.)

The economic reasons for present high prices in the United States are axiomatic almost to the point of triteness. But at the risk of indulging in the obvious, and in view of some statements bearing on the subject recently made by the treasurer of the United States, a restatement of a few of the causes of high prices may not be amiss. As a matter of fact, it is not the value of the article in ordinary use that has gone up; what has happened is that the purchasing power of the dollar has gone down. If the standard value of gold were today what it was two years ago, its purchasing power would be the same, and it would go just as far as it went two years ago in exchange for household supplies. But the gold standard has been lowered, or the purchasing power of the gold dollar, which affects the purchasing power of all other dollars, whether represented by paper or by fractional currency, has declined, so that a larger part of it than formerly is necessary to buy a loaf of bread or a pound of sugar.

The reason why gold is not so valuable in the United States now as it was, say, two years ago, is that there is a great deal more of it on hand now than there was then. This plentifulness of the yellow metal in the United States may easily be explained by pointing to the country's extraordinary export trade, which brings in an unprecedented quantity of gold. But other causes are operating. Plentifulness of money means expansion of enterprise and plentifulness of work. This means, in turn, a higher wage for the worker and a seemingly greater purchasing power for the worker's wife. But it also means higher cost of production, and the worker's wife discovers, sooner or later, that while she has more ready money to spend, it does not go so far as formerly toward meeting the demands of her household.

Of course, if there is, as happens to be the case at present, a great demand for American products, natural and manufactured, abroad, the prices of these goods become stiffer at home. Many commodities that enter into the daily needs of the people, and are not affected by the export trade, or particularly so by the influx of gold, are advancing sympathetically with the market in general. It would be possible, if space permitted, to show that there is little or no excuse for advances in a long list of articles, but the fact would still remain, speaking generally, that while prosperity has its advantages it also has its defects. Or, to put it in another way, economics are immovable on the proposition that what is commonly called prosperity is usually an abnormal state of business exaltation from which there must be recovery before real prosperity prevails. Real prosperity is that condition springing from public stability and private solvency which makes for the comfort of all. It means fair earnings on invested capital, and fair compensation for labor. Unreal, because impermanent, prosperity is that based on inflation of values. Inflation is invariably followed by contraction. Prices of commodities and of labor fixed at a level that can be maintained is the great desideratum.

Too Proud to Fight.

Too proud to take what he cannot give,
Too proud to kill that he may live,
Too proud to fight, if a better way
Will bring to his brothers the light of day
When never a man will raise his hand
'Gainst weaker brother, but stanch will stand
For the honor and right of his native land;
For the right to live, not the right to kill;
To follow his own, not another's will;
To help the oppressed; to use his might
To keep his land from war's black night;
Too proud, too brave, too true to fight—
God help him and keep him safe in His sight
Till he's taught the world by right, not might,
That the bravest and truest and noblest of men
Have watched and have waited again and again
To be ready to see and to know the time when
They can win, without fighting, their own fellow-men.

Oil Inspector Appointments.

Editor Constitution: I notice in your morning paper of November 6 an article headed "Price Announces List of Inspectors of Oil in Georgia." In this article it refers to the appointments as though they were made from an arbitrary standpoint, stating that my successor in office can reappoint the present list or individuals of the list at his discretion.

All appointments made by me were made as the law directs, as all previous appointments expired on October 1, and I have simply carried out the law in making new appointments for a term of two years. Very truly yours, J. D. PRICE,
Commissioner of Agriculture.

VICTORY FOR WILSON IS PREDICTED IN TELEGRAMS FROM MANY STATES

WALKER'S FINAL WORD.

John D. Walker, chairman for Georgia of the finance committee of the democratic national committee, last night wired The Constitution from Sparta, Ga., his final word on election eve:

Editor Constitution: This morning I wired the chairman of the following state democratic committees, each for a statement concerning the situation in his state, and their replies follow:

Kentucky will give Wilson 15,000 majority.

Nebraska—Wilson's majority, 25,000.

Kansas—In my judgment will cast its electoral vote for Wilson.

Delaware—Will go for Wilson by 35,000.

Missouri—For Wilson by from 50,000 to 60,000.

Minnesota—Indications are Wilson will carry Minnesota.

New Jersey—Georgia will have nothing on New Jersey. Wilson stronger here than ever.

Washington—We confidently believe Wilson will carry Washington by 25,000.

JOHN D. WALKER, Chairman.

According to a statement wired to his lieutenants in Atlanta yesterday by John D. Walker, who, as representative of the finance committee of the democratic national committee in this state, has had general supervision over the work of raising funds in Georgia, this state's contribution to the national campaign fund probably will run close to $22,000.

"Georgia's contribution is now over $20,000, and may go close to $22,000," Mr. Walker telegraphed. "This is a fine tribute to the co-operation of the press and to the loyal democrats who have so patriotically responded. Congratulations."

With Professor E. L. Martin, of Macon, and Ben Lee Crew, of Atlanta, giving their undivided time to the work of organizing Wilson clubs and raising funds throughout the state during the last month, each ably assisted by local volunteers in every county and community, a remarkable showing was made in a remarkably short while among the voters, and even more remarkable and praiseworthy has been the efforts put forth in behalf of the president by the women of Georgia, organized under the general leadership of Mrs. Emma T. Martin, who has since October 2 maintained official headquarters in the Empire building, Atlanta.

Through Mrs. Martin, the women and girls of the state have contributed approximately $2,000 through the sale of Wilson buttons. This work, too, is not done, because the plan is to have women and girls at every polling place selling buttons in a final effort to swell the fund and Georgia's campaign contribution to the highest possible degree.

The state has been thoroughly covered, and a degree of Wilson enthusiasm engendered which has led to predictions by party workers that Georgia will give Wilson a majority of more than 100,000 today.

RETAIL MERCHANTS INTERESTED IN THE MERCHANTS' CLINIC

The Merchants' clinic, a three-day discussion of merchandising and advertising, to be held November 27 to 29 under the auspices of the Atlanta Ad. Men's club and the Retail Merchants' association, is being rapidly organized by a committee chosen from both these organizations. The members of this committee, comprising F. J. Paxon, W. W. Orr, Dr. Dillard Jacobs, J. C. Stanford, Phil C. McDuffie, R. C. Rice, Richard Schwab, E. H. Cone, Julian Boehm and F. E. Lowenstein, are now in the field and report splendid progress.

Frank Stockdale, lecturer for the educational committee of the Associated Advertising Clubs of the World, is being brought to Atlanta for this three-day session and his course of lectures, appealing directly to retail merchants, are wonderful business stimulants. He has conducted similar courses in many of the most important cities of the country.

The local Ad. Men's club is bringing Mr. Stockton here for the benefit of the local merchants, and it is expected that the attendance on the course will be representative of every line of retail merchandise in the city. Membership in the organization is not required in order to take in the course. Many local speakers will participate in the various discussions, in addition to Mr. Stockton's lectures.

FINE PROGRAM IS READY FOR SOUTHERN MEDICAL ASSOCIATION MEETING

The Southern Medical association has just issued one of the most elaborate programs in its history for the coming meeting to be held soon in Atlanta. The convention will last four days and will be divided into five sections, each one of which will have in hand subject matter of interest to the doctor working in the specialty handled by the respective sections.

The Auditorium-Armory will be divided into assembly halls for handling the various divisions of this body. There will be a section on railroad surgery, one on public health, one on medicine, one on surgery and one on diseases of the eye, ear, nose and throat.

In addition to this, general clinics will be held at the various hospitals and conducted by men selected throughout the United States who have specially qualified in certain lines of endeavor. In the various departments scientific subjects will be discussed covering every phase of medicine. Besides these clinics, there will be one hundred and fifty papers read and discussed, each doctor having the opportunity of listening to those in which he is most directly interested.

The various social features have been arranged so that they will in nowise conflict with the scientific work. More doctors will be in attendance upon this meeting than has ever attended one before. Two thousand physicians in Atlanta during these four days would be a conservative estimate.

Former Senator Hansbrough, North Dakota Republican, Will Vote for President Wilson

Another stalwart republican of the old school—Henry Clay Hansbrough, for eighteen years a United States senator from North Dakota—has declared his support of President Wilson. In an open letter to Republican Candidate Hughes, in which he subscribes himself "a Wilson republican," Mr. Hansbrough invites the nominee to suppose that he and the president occupied reverse places.

"Suppose," he says, "you had been president of the United States during a period fraught with startling and unexpected world events, and that Woodrow Wilson should resign from the bench and take the stump against you.

"Would not such a campaign on his part impress you with the littleness in his conception of the high duties belonging to your great office?"

Mr. Hansbrough then recounts the great achievements of President Wilson—his peace policy, tariff commission, federal reserve act, rural credit bill and eight-hour measure—assuming that Hughes had caused these to be enacted, and adds:

"Had you exercised your best judgment in conformity with the best interests of all the people, regardless of their party affiliations, and Mr. Wilson, seeking to supersede you as the chief executive of the country, were to declare that nothing you had done was right and everything you had done was wrong, I ask you if the result would not be very depressing to you, a patriotic and fair-minded citizen?

"This was the feeling that prompted me, after listening to one of your first speeches in this campaign, to declare myself in favor of the re-election of Mr. Wilson.

"But for the fact that you are seeking an office, wouldn't you cast your vote as I intend to cast mine—for the man who has done his level best and succeeded in many big things, rather than for the man who ignores the bigger things and deals vaguely with the little things?"

To the Nymphs of the Woods.

If I but knew what the treetops say,
A whispering secrets night and day,
My love I'd tell to you—
A tale surpassing stories told
To ladies fair by knights of old,
If I but knew.

If I but knew where the fairies sup,
And how they fill the flower's cup,
A cup I'd fill for you—
A chalice rare for thy dear lips
As any that a god e'er sips,
If I but knew.

If I knew how, from the thrush's throat,
To steal the sweetness of her note
A song I'd sing for you—
A song as sweet as the songs of love
As sung by angel choirs above,
If I but knew.

DYNAMITING OF CARS DENOUNCED BY JUDGE, CHARGING GRAND JURY

Denouncing the dynamiting of trolley cars, Judge Ben Hill yesterday again took occasion to urge prompt action against guilty parties when he charged the November grand jury.

"If a stop cannot be put to it," he said, "we have reached a period of anarchy, and the time is ripe for the coming of a man on horseback. Never before in the history of the country have we been in such need of upright, experienced, intelligent and fearless jurors, both grand and petit.

"Almost every night, according to the newspapers, acts of lawlessness are committed—causeless, brutal and cruel acts of lawlessness. A great deal has been said about the enforcement of the law. The whole matter hinges on the grand and petit jurors. Crimes go unpunished because the grand jury will not indict, or the petit jury will not convict.

"To throw a missile, or shoot a pistol at a street car, which is a common carrier, is a felony punishable by imprisonment from one to five years. Persons who place dynamite on street car tracks have no claim to mercy, and I apprehend that they will get none. They are cowardly outlaws working under the cover of darkness. Anyone who places dynamite on a car track is a potential murderer."

GEORGIA DEMOCRATS ARE URGED TO VOTE BY GOVERNOR HARRIS

Before leaving for Macon to vote, Governor Harris authorized the following statement in regard to the election through the medium of his daily official bulletin:

"The governor expects every Georgian to do his duty on tomorrow by going to the polls and voting. This is the highest exercise of citizenship. The governor is a democrat, and, of course, believes in loyally supporting the party's nominees. In national matters the state has always gone democratic since the reconstruction days, and it is expected that this precedent will not be broken.

"No four years in our history have been marked with a larger effort or a more successful result in constructive legislation for the good of the people than the years that have been passed during President Wilson's administration. The people have been put in charge of their government by him. He has preserved the peace and saved the honor of the nation and continued its domestic tranquility. His policy brought prosperity out of panic and if continued will insure the greatest happiness possible to our population."

Greek Citizens of Asia Minor Roughly Treated As a Result of the War

"If the reports of refugees arriving in the city of Mytilene, on the Aegean island of Lesbos, are worthy of credence, the Greek citizens of the flourishing Asia Minor seaport of Aivali are undergoing unhappy experiences closely akin to those visited upon their forebears just 95 years ago," says a war geography bulletin of the National Geographic society.

"It was in 1821 that Greeks and Turks clashed in Alvali with the result that many of the former were massacred while others were sold into slavery. Now, according to cable dispatches which have reached America via Athens, 500 prominent Alvalians have been deported into the interior after being subjected to 'the roughest treatment.'

"At the beginning of the present war Aivali, with its prosperous population of 20,000, largely Greek, was one of the most thriving cities of the Levant, enjoying an extensive fishing trade with Constantinople and Smyrna, and exporting quantities of olive oil, grain and wood. The town is on the northeast shore of the Strait of Mytilene, and its harbor is protected from the prevailing winds of this region by the Moshonisi islands, beyond which lies the Bay of Andramyti, with Mount Ida, of historic note, at its head.

Built on Site of Ancient Town.

"Aivali, whose name is Kydonia, is built on the site of the ancient town of Heraclea, but of far more interest than the latter city is a once noted metropolis 25 miles to the southeast—the splendid Pergamus or Pergamum of the third century before the Christian era.

"Pergamus (the modern Bergama) occupied a magnificent eminence overlooking the fertile valley of the Caicus river, and was 15 miles from the sea. Its great acropolis was crowned with many buildings—temples, palaces and theaters. Here excavators have discovered the remains of the great altar of Zeus Soter with its wonderful relief sculpture telling a running story of the struggle of the gods with the giant. This relief has been restored and taken to Berlin, where it is prized as one of the greatest archaeological treasures of the German capital.

"Pergamus, whose modern successor is a town about the same size as Aivali, owes its first impulse to greatness to Lysimachus, one of Alexander the Great's generals, who stored in the strong fort then existing on the acropolis, a part of his immense treasure.

An Untrustworthy Subject.

He placed a trusted but untrustworthy subject in charge of it. This was Philetaerus of Tium who seized a favorable opportunity to rebel against his master and before the latter could put down the revolt he was beset by other enemies and lost his life on the plains of Corus, where his body was guarded for many days by his faithful dog—a familiar story of canine fidelity.

"Philetaerus managed to keep on good terms with his more powerful neighbors and his tiny principality grew appreciably during his 20 years' reign. He was succeded by his nephew, Eumenes, in 263 B. C., and he in turn by Attalus I, who, after defeating the Gauls in an important battle, assumed the title of king. The newly-styled monarch now attached himself to Rome as a staunch friend and admirer and Pergamus' great day was at hand. Art flourished and the commerce of the kingdom was extensive.

"The last king of Pergamus, Attalus III., reigned only five years, and by his will he gave his throne to Rome (133 B. C.). That power annexed the kingdom as a province, but for more than two hundred years the capital was one of the three great cities of the region, the other two being Ephesus and Smyrna. During all this time the citizens were as loyal to the Roman cause as had been their sovereigns."

LITTLE LOCALS ABOUT THINGS OF CITY INTEREST

Governor Harris announced yesterday that he had received an invitation from Governor Pleasant, of Louisiana, to attend a farm and live stock exposition in New Orleans this month. November 17 has been set aside as Governors' day and Governor Pleasant suggests that the Georgia chief executive's presence would be particularly welcome on that day. He is invited to come attended by his military staff. The governor has written that it will not be possible for him to accept the invitation.

Cleve Williams, the Atlanta telegraph operator whose confession was published in full in The Constitution Sunday a week ago, and who was brought back under extradition from Denver, Colo., was sentenced to four years in the penitentiary yesterday by Judge Ben Hill on a charge of forgery.

An ardent plea was made in open court by the young man's father, who stated that Williams is in bad health, and that a prison sentence would undermine him to the extent he would become permanently infirm. Williams pleaded guilty to having forged and manipulated bogus Southern Express company money orders, which were stolen from the office in Mooresville, N. C.

Offices for the Southeastern Land show were opened Monday at suite 401 Flatiron building, and there was a decided rush for exhibit space. By 3 o'clock in the afternoon 15 of the 100 available booths had been reserved.

Of the reservations Monday, two booths were for Alabama, four for Florida, one for Chicago, one for Atlanta, and the others for various places in Georgia.

The officers of the Atlanta Alumni association of the Alpha Tau Omega fraternity are planning a pleasing program for the dinner on Saturday evening at 6:30 o'clock at the Hotel Ansley.

All members of the association are urged to attend this informal gathering, and those desiring places at the dinner will notify James L. Giradeau, secretary of the association, at 721 courthouse.

November number of "Third Ward Civics" is off the press. The official publication of the Third Ward Boosters is bigger and better than usual.

There will be little business transacted in the state capitol today, as a considerable number of statehouse officials left the city last night for their home counties to vote. Governor Harris, accompanied by Mrs. Harris, went to Macon where he will cast his vote for Woodrow Wilson and the state democratic ticket. Judge Robert L. Hodges, of the court of appeals, also votes in Macon.

Judge John C. Hart, tax commissioner, went to Union Point to vote and Attorney General Cliff Walker to Monroe. Judge Patterson, of the prison and highway commissions, returned from Washington Sunday night and left last night to cast his ballot at his home in Griffin. He had been to Washington to confer with officials of the department of agriculture in regard to the recently enacted highway law. He said he might have an important announcement to make shortly after his return.

Election returns will be flashed tonight on a screen in the assembly hall of the Atlanta Chamber of Commerce for the benefit of the members of the chamber and their families. A special wire has been leased, and a stereopticon machine provided. Those who will attend are urged to come early as returns will be shown as early at 6:30 o'clock.

Council Monday voted to set aside $10,000 for the purpose of repairing the Edgewood avenue bridge. This will be supplemented by sums from the Southern railway and the Georgia Railway and Power company, providing a total of about $21,000. The paper was introduced by Councilman McCord, chairman of the bridge committee of council. He stated that the two railway companies have agreed to meet their proportionate share of the cost.

W. D. Greene, insurance man and former city employee, announced Monday that he would not consider offering for the office of city marshal in the city election to be held December 6. He was reported as considering running against Marshal James M. Fuller, nominee, who is running for tax collector of the county. Mr. Greene stated Monday that in his opinion the nominee should be supported and that he did not care to foster any spirit of antagonism among the voters by getting in the race. He thanked his many friends for the interest they have shown in the proposal.

Announcement is made by St. Philip's Cathedral that the regular meeting of the chapter has been postponed until Wednesday, November 15, on account of the supper given by the Men's club at the Ansley hotel on Wednesday night.

While going from Lindale, Ga., to West Point, Ga., to get her four-year-old baby, Mrs. Maude Mae Edge, aged 20, of Lyndale, disappeared here at the terminal station on October 29, and since that time nothing has been heard from her. Relatives have instituted a vigorous search in vain. She is described as being a blonde, about 5 feet 4 inches tall and weighing about 130 pounds. On the date of her disappearance she wore a checkered coat suit and a broad-brimmed hat.

The report of the park manager, Oscar Cochran, to be submitted to the meeting of the park board next Wednesday will show a number of improvements in Piedmont and Grant parks during the past month.

A total of 7,299 lineal feet of guttering has been laid in Piedmont park. Every road in the park now has a gutter on both sides. Walks have been laid in Adair park so that every portion of the playground is provided with a concrete sidewalk. A large amount of work has been done in the Adair school lot. In Grant park there have been 1,800 lineal feet of concrete walk laid on Cherokee avenue, 960 feet along Burn street and South Boulevard to Confederate avenue, 229 feet from the Glenn street entrance to the park connecting with the walks around Constitution spring, and a concrete bridge leading to the springs.

The colored people of Atlanta are greatly interested in the outcome of the election. Special provision has been made to receive the returns at the First Congregational church, colored, corner Courtland avenue and Houston street, in connection with the annual Harvest Home festival of the church now in progress. Arrangements have been made to receive the first bulletins at 6 o'clock. The auditorium will seat 1,000 people.

Resolutions expressing regret at the death of Andrew P. Stewart, for thirty-three years superintendent of the First Baptist Sunday school, have been adopted by officers and members of the school, and a page of the minutes has been set apart as a permanent record of the resolutions.

The resolutions state: "We shall most keenly miss the genial personality of this great and good man. We have lost one of our most useful and honored officials, and each of us a devoted, sympathetic and faithful friend. His kindly spirit, unselfish, liberal and faithful, endeared him to every member. We shall all miss his guiding and inspiring presence at the sessions of our school. We loved him not alone for his bright smile and generous and sympathetic nature, but for the purity and excellence of his noble Christian character."

Hearing upon the freight rates on commodities from Pacific coast points to Atlanta was begun before George T. Bell, attorney examiner for the interstate commerce commission, Washington, D. C., sitting in the circuit courtroom in the federal building.

Testimony was taken yesterday chiefly in relation to shipments of canned fruits, vegetables, etc. The hearing will continue for probably two or three more days, when Mr. Bell will return with his data to Washington.

This hearing has no bearing upon the rate hearing in progress before the state railroad commission, nor is it in any wise in connection with the proposed interstate commerce commission hearing scheduled to begin here November 20.

GOVERNOR TO ATTEND STATE FAIR TODAY

Executive and Staff Will Be Guests of the City and Fair Association Tuesday.

Macon, Ga., November 6.—(Special.) Governor Harris and members of his staff will be the guests of honor at the Georgia State fair tomorrow and the fair association has made elaborate preparations for their entertainment. Accompanying the governor's party from Atlanta tomorrow morning will be a large delegation of Atlanta people.

The party will arrive in Macon at 11 o'clock. They will be met at the Southern railway depot by a reception committee composed of Macon people and taken for an automobile parade to the fair grounds. The parade will be headed by the Georgia Military college drum and bugle corps and 300 cadets from that institution and by the Guttenberger band.

An inspection of the exhibits will be the first thing on the program after arrival at the fair grounds. At 1 o'clock a luncheon will be served at the Georgia Industrial Home restaurant. During the afternoon the visitors will watch the horse races and airship flights by Aviator Lawrence Brown. They will leave at 5 o'clock for the return trip to Atlanta.

During his visit here Governor Harris will address the members of the Boys' and Girls' Corn and Canning clubs of the state, who will be here 200 strong. The members of the Girls' Canning clubs will be entertained in Macon homes Tuesday night. The club displays at the fair this year show the remarkable progress the young people are making in their work.

Today was Educational and College day at the fair and several hundred college students from Mercer, Wesleyan, Bessie Tift, the G. N. I. C. and other institutions of the state thronged the grounds.

The judging in the various departments is nearing completion and awards will be announced soon.

NEXT PRESIDENT WON'T TAKE OATH ON 4TH OF MARCH

Washington, November 6.—The choice of the American people for president at tomorrow's election would, according to custom, take the oath of office March 4, 1917, but that day comes on Sunday and Washingtonians vastly interested in an inauguration are curious to know whether the ceremony will be held March 3 or March 5. One investigator learned today from the authorities in the congressional library that the two recorded presidents show Rutherford B. Hays was inaugurated March 3 and Zachary Taylor on March 5. Apparently it is a matter for the successful candidate to settle for himself.

WILSON URGES TEST FOR ALL POSTMASTERS

New York, November 6.—President Wilson declared himself as favoring legislation providing for the appointment of postmasters of all classes through competitive civil service examination in a letter to the National Civil Service Reform league, which was made public today. Last week Charles E. Hughes, republican nominee for president, indorsed such legislation. The president's letter follows:

"I wish to state that the postmaster general in his annual report for the fiscal year ended June 30, 1914, recommended to congress the enactment of legislation which would permit of the extension of the classified civil service so as to include the position of postmaster at offices of the third class. The following year he not only renewed this recommendation, but recommended that the postmasters of second class be included as well, but no action has ever been taken by congress on these recommendations. In this annual report for the fiscal year just ended he will not only renew his recommendation for the legislation mentioned, but will ask that it be extended to offices of the first class as well.

"I am thoroughly in accord with the recommendations of the postmaster general and they have my hearty approval. You understand, however, that the classification of the position does not classify the incumbent and the person holding the position at the time it is classified will be subject to the same competitive test as others who may apply. When these positions are classified the postmaster general will be able to fill many of them by promotion from the clerical grades, also by the promotion of postmasters who have demonstrated their ability from a smaller office to one of greater importance."

GUARDSMEN TO VOTE ON MEXICAN BORDER

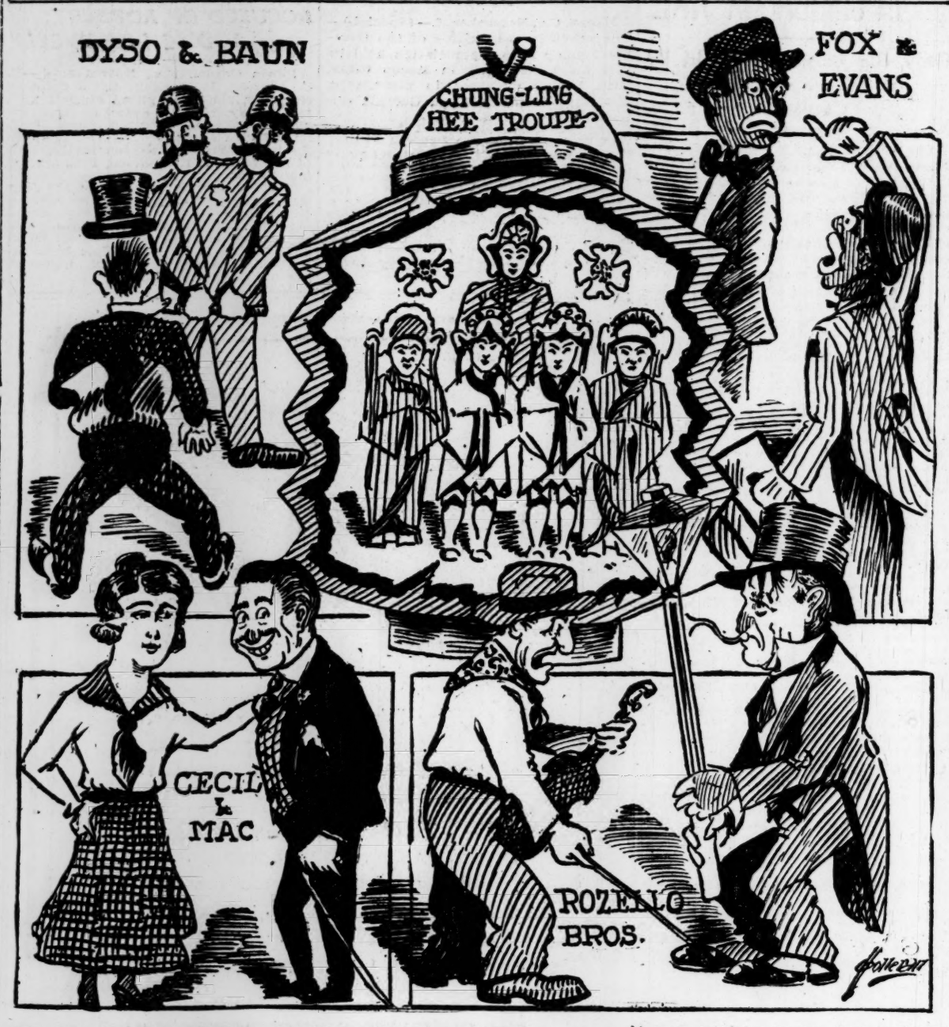

San Antonio, Texas, November 6.—Although in some instances nearly two thousand miles from home, many national guardsmen on the border will cast their vote for president tomorrow as usual. Troops in Texas who will vote include guardsmen from New York, Virginia, Minnesota, North and South Dakota, Wisconsin, Kansas and Iowa.

In some camps the election has been on for a week. The Virginia law provides that all ballots must be back in the state by election day to be counted with the ballots of the stay-at-home voters. As a consequence Virginia guardsmen have concluded their election.

In a great many cases the vote of the guardsmen will be returned to the home state sealed and without the result being known in camp. In others, notably that of the New York guardsmen, it is planned to cast official and unofficial ballots so the soldier boys will know without waiting just how they are aligned politically.

Four different sets of republican tickets appeared on the streets yesterday, each bearing the name of a different candidate for tax collector.—(adv.)

PENSHOTS OF PIEDMONT BILL

Cohan's New Comedy Proves Sure Cure for the "Blues"

Don't say I never did you a favor, for I'm telling you now to go see Frank Otto in "Hit-the-Trail-Holliday." The play opened at the Atlanta theater last night and it will be there Tuesday and Wednesday nights with a matinee Wednesday afternoon.

If a comedy with more good, hearty laughs of the kind that makes you forget all your troubles has ever come to Atlanta, I do not remember having seen it. The lines and the situations crowd laughs upon another until laughing is all but physical pain.

Mr. Otto is a natural, pleasing sort of a chap whose acting is entirely disassociated from those characteristics of the term "actor," which fill one with a desire to be somewhere else than where the "actor" is when off stage. He lives the part of "Hit-the-Trail-Holliday" with all the simplicity, naivette and enthusiasm of a baseball fan at a world's series game, only he's the whole game and his audience are real fans. Never a Billy Sunday found a more ready and enthusiastic audience than Mr. Otto's last night. Such was the enthusiasm that at the end of the second act Mr. Otto was compelled to make a curtain speech. There are likely not a few Atlantans who remember his several appearances here in vaudeville.

"Hit-the-Trail-Holliday" seizes upon the topical subject with the usual aptness of a Cohan & Harris show, and the theme is worked out with the cleverness and wealth of surprise that usually makes a Cohan comedy a genuine stimulant for mind and body. The depiction of the barkeeper who got mad with his new boss and led the prohibition procession for spite, waking up the next morning to find himself "in the class with Bryan, Roosevelt and the kaiser," is told with a red-blooded vividness and smack of street vernacular that makes one think twice to realize that O. Henry is dead. The first act, for instance, is not merely a faithful portrayal of a "small town" barber shop with its coterie of hangers-around and their idle gossip; it is a "small town" barber shop where "small town" barber shop "stuff" is in reality "pulled"—if you will gather that distinction.

An attempt to describe a funny show is one of the capers before high heaven that makes the angels weep, but it is hard to resist mentioning the unforgetable moment when "Hit-the-Trail-Holliday" was expecting to be arrested and the chief of police marched the entire force in to have them sing "The Star Spangled Banner" for him, or that other silent and sublime moment in the parson's study, in the first blush of Holliday's career, when the latter gave unexpected vent to a good, round "damn!"

Howard Hull Gibson, as the wrist-watch son of the millionaire brewer, and Chauncey Causland, expressman and champion checker player of Johnsburg, are pleasing exceptions to a supporting company, against which, however, one hardly feels disposed to register picayunish complaint, although there is undoubtedly room in several roles for appreciable improvement.

If you see Mr. Otto, though, you are not likely to worry yourself into a headache about the rest of the company.

NEL M'INTOSH.

(At the Forsyth.)

Victor Morley and his excellent company in Channing Pollock's delightful little playlet, "A Regular Army Man," carried off a large share of the applause at the Forsyth last night. He proved quite convincing as the rich young prodigal who enters the army because he is in love with the colonel's daughter, but who has no taste for the discipline of the camp. His rendition of the author's witty lines pleased the audience, and Louis Baum as the rude sergeant and drill master was also well received. Not the least enjoyable part of the performance were the camp songs of Rennold Wolf, interspersed in the little play.

There were other good features in the bill, notably Grace Leigh and Sam Bernard, Jr., in what was described as a satire with music entitled "Love Gamblers;" Bert Melrose, featuring his own "original Melrose," and Ben Deely and Lillian Steele in "The New Bell Boy."

Leigh and Bernard made the best of a dialogue that was based on an old theme, Bernard particularly showing that he possessed a considerable share of wit. Melrose kept the audience almost roaring with laughter, wondering all the time what silly thing he would do next. His act was a demonstration of how many laughs could be wrung out of the purest absurdities.

The Norvelles opened the bill with a remarkably clever trapeze act, the amazing muscular development of the girl of the pair, when she appeared in tights, proving a revelation to the audience.

Ethel Hopkins sang a number of songs. Her imitation of her impressions of Bori in grand opera drew a hearty handclap.

Ralph Dunbar's White Hussars, the closing number, a band which could sing even better than it could play, was a delight to all music lovers in the audience.

If any criticism could be made of a bill, the individual numbers of which were all good of their kind, it is that there was not enough variety and a dearth of girls. Three playlets in one bill and only four girls in the whole show from beginning to end grows a little monotonous to the average vaudeville audience.

TOM CONNER.

Loew Vaudeville.

(At the Grand.)

The Grand theater in this week's program offers another excellent bill. The show which opened there Monday is one full of good things from the first act to the closing picture.

Lipinski's dog comedians, which is a big act using forty trained dogs of all kinds and sizes, is the headliner. Miss Lipinski, the trainer and owner of the forty actors, does not appear on the stage until the last bit is done by her experienced canines. Then she comes on for a curtain call and the audience is more than pleased with her.

The act shows what is termed every day life in a dog village. It has some amusing bits, but the actors themselves are the real show. Any lover of dogs will be delighted with the way in which they play their roles.

Harry Le Clair offers some impersonations which are unusual. In two of his appearances he comes on as a woman. The first time he depicts the old-time actress. His second appearance gives a representation of Ophelia in "Hamlet," and in the last number he appears as the devil.

Gray and Klunker have a singing and talking act with a little dancing thrown in by the male member of the pair for their final send-off, which brought forth generous applause. The audience did not want to let them go, but, though they were applauded for some seconds, a second appearance was not forthcoming. Miss Gray is pretty, and in spite of the fact that she has a little song advising no man to fall in love with what he sees in a photograph or on the stage and proves her advice by showing that much of her facial beauty is made with the grease paint, the male members of the audience last night seemed more than willing to get a good look after the show.

Earl and Sunshine, two girls, one of them dressed as a man, more than pleased their audience. Both have wonderful figures and are pretty. The changes of Miss Earl in costume and character portrayal is one of the pleasing features of their act. Miss Sunshine has a good voice.

Willie Smith offers some songs and song readings that please and are new. His voice is good and his general appearance excellent. He received two encores last night from the large audience.

Last, but not by any means least, comes the feature picture of the program. This is Alice Brady in "Bought and Paid For."

With several pretty girls and a jam-up picture as the close of the show, patrons of the Grand this week will find their time well spent.

S. J. ORR.

Popular Vaudeville.

(At the Piedmont.)

The majority of the people at the Piedmont theater yesterday afternoon would have been perfectly willing to let the present bill remain at this popular house for the entire week, without the usual midweek change.

They would have told you, had they been asked the reason, that having a program that suited them so perfectly they were willing to come to see it again, and yet again.

There may have been better bills offered so far this season, but if so the memory of the critic is faulty. There are two acts of fair caliber, and there are three—well, to fully realize the value of these three it will be necessary to pay your way in or apply to Bill Sharp or to Ted Hardcastle for a pass. Mere words cannot do them quite credit.

The headline act had 'em gasping Monday afternoon. Said headliners are a collection of Chinamen who swallow fire, endanger their lives in knife hoops, and don't care whether their hair stays in or comes out.

Their "I don't care what happens to me" feats start off early, when one Chinaman, blandly smiling, lights taper after taper, and calmly pushes them into his mouth. Then he adds for good measure great gobs of cotton, after which he takes a drink. By this time he is smoking just as bad as they say factories do in Pittsburg, or some other cities nearer home.

Finally, when he is satisfied with his queen meal, the Chinaman puts his finger into his mouth and begins to pull out the cotton and paper. By this time it has turned into a long cube of vari-colored paper. Then come other cubes, and long rolls of paper, until it looks like he is going to fill the stage with paper ribbons. And all the while he is still smoking.

Then to add other feats for good measure, a performer jumps through three hoops, lined on the inside with sharp knives; two Chinamen suspend themselves in the air by their cues, and twist, and squirm and twirl in the air, until it looks like their pigtails would be torn off; and finally a Chinaman goes into the gallery and slides to the stage, his pigtail being fastened to a wire. The act is certainly worth a glimpse or so.

If you like music see the Rozella brothers in their unique musical feature. One comes out, dressed like some immigrant, with a violin in his hands. Another staggers out from the wings. He is diked out in a dress suit of 1870 pattern, looks decidedly like the morning after a night before. He is carrying what looks like a pipe. He smokes for a while and then every puff he takes is suddenly turned into music. Later on he comes out with a cane in his hand, and blows the cane, and once again come popular tunes. And later, he brings out a lamppost with him, and makes of that a medium to music. His partner is accomplished on his violin, and the two give an act that "stopped" the show.

As pretty a girl as seen on the Piedmont stage for some time is a member of the Cecil and Mac act. They ought'nt to leave a man in doubt in a case like this as to whether Cecil or Mac is the girl. It's the only great big mistake on the bill. The man says he is married and must go home, but the majority of the men in the audience noticed he was awfully slow in starting. The songs and chatter of the couple pleased.

Other acts on the bill are: Dyso and Braun, in an eccentric feature, and Fox and Evans, blackface artists.

If you miss this bill, don't ever ask advice again.

ROBERT MORAN.

"Princess Pat."

(At the Atlanta.)

Seats are to be placed on sale at the Atlanta this morning for the engagement of "Princess Pat," which will be played Friday and Saturday with a Saturday matinee. This is Victor Herbert's best and latest musical production and has been a tremendous hit throughout the country. It is a play with beautiful music which will live for many seasons, but has comedy as well. The company is reported to be up to the high standards set by the Aborn Opera company, who will stand sponsor for the local appearance. In the south the company has won universal commendation for its singing ability. Among the principals is a southern girl, Dorothy South, of Knoxville, whose father, Mr. W. E. McMillen, is a prominent citizen of that city. The ensemble and general singing is well worth while in every respect.

"Sin of Her Parent."

(At the Strand.)

A new star shone in the screen firmament at the Strand theater Monday. Her name is Gladys Brockwell and Atlantans look upon her as an actress of the first water—surely she demonstrated this in "Sins of Her Parent," offered by Manager Fowler Monday.

The picture registered an instant success and those who missed the production will have an opportunity of viewing the feature today.

In the film, on the one hand, there is a southerner, the man of proud family, who will not see his name dragged in the dust; on the other is the girl, who loves the southerner's son, and cannot marry him because of a grevous reason.

"Sins of Her Parent" is described as being a picture that all mothers should see.

Singing Trio Scores.

(At the Vaudette.)

One of America's winning singing trios, Brant, Schrieber and Hastings, and a photoplay of unusual attainments are the attractions de luxe at the Vaudette theater today. The trio has made a regular hit, and will remain on the boards all the week.

The girlish charm, the winsomeness and the remarkable ability of Mary Miles Minter to live delightful child stories on the screen assures Atlanta filmgoers that "Faith," the newest of the M. M. M. productions, is something of infinite sweetness.

In the film "Faith" is left infant on the doorstep of an orphanage, where she is secretly looked after by a middle-aged woman. The character is one of those sympathetic and strongly dramatic child parts, in which Miss Minter is always magnetic.

Marguerite Clark.

(At the Georgian.)

Marguerite Clark has been seen in many different characters, but she has never done anything more absorbingly interesting and more thoroughly sympathetic than Elise, the delightful little Alpine shepherdess in "Out of the Drifts," which comes to the Georgian theater today. It is a tale of the eternal snows, of avalanches, dizzy heights and yawning chasms, ranging from the pastoral beauties of a shepherdess' life to the grim fight for existence against the smashing, hurricane-driven snows.

As an added feature today the latest Pathe news weekly will be shown.

Wednesday's attraction will be Pauline Frederick in "Ashes of Embers."

Blanche Sweet.

(At the Piedmont.)

The big picture of the week is "Unprotested," which will be offered today and Wednesday at Alamo No. 2, with delightful Blanche Sweet in the leading role. This is a drama written especially for her and produced under the direction of James Young. The story shows the conditions which convict labor creates in the southern states when leased to private corporations.

In addition to the picture "That Texas Quartette" will render rag time and semi-classic songs. This quartette has certainly earned the distinction of being pleasant singers of pleasant songs.

Man Burned to Death.

Clifton Forge, Va., November 6.—Fire, believed to have been of incendiary origin, early today destroyed six business buildings here. H. S. Callahan, after escaping from his rooms, returned and was burned to death. The flames were extinguished with the aid of the Covington fire department. The loss was about $150,000.

MARIST NIGHT SCHOOL SHORTHAND

NUTRITION AND ELIMINATION

The health of the body depends upon the food, upon its proper digestion and absorption, and the proper excretion of waste.

The maintenance of health and repair of waste depend very largely upon the condition of the blood. In order to keep the blood in condition, it must be well supplied with fresh nutriment and the products of waste freely eliminated.

Many ailments arise from dyspepsia. Imperfect digestion is very often caused by defective elimination constipation.

Undigested food remains on the stomach until decomposed, causing dyspepsia, rheumatism, constipation, biliousness, or perhaps even to irritability and sleeplessness. Much dyspepsia would be avoided by attention to the condition of the stomach, and by obedience to one or two simple rules: (1) To eat slowly; (2) to masticate thoroughly; (3) to take no liquid with meals, excepting breakfast, but drink a glass of water, hot preferable, in which two teaspoonfuls of JACOBS' LIVER SALT has been added, on rising in the morning. This clears the stomach of all toxin poisons, clears the brain, and makes one feel fit for a day's work. 25c and 50c at all druggists, or direct from the makers, Jacobs' Pharmacy, Atlanta, Ga.—(adv.)

CUBA SEEKS THE RIGHT TO SUE NORTH CAROLINA

Bonds Valued at $2,186,000 Given to Aid Railroad Are Involved.

Washington, November 6.—In what was said to be the first suit ever begun in the supreme court by a foreign nation against one of the United States, attorneys for Cuba today asked the supreme court for leave to file a original petition against the state of North Carolina to secure payment of bonds valued at $2,186,000 subscribed by North Carolina to aid railroad construction in that state nearly fifty years ago. Payment, it was alleged, has been refused.

The original jurisdiction of the supreme court was invoked in the proceedings today under the constitutional provision for initial proceedure in that court of suits between foreign states and the United States, but Cuba's attorneys stated that there is no record of any former suit by a foreign state against an individual state of the union.

The bonds involved in the proceedings begun today were issued by North Carolina in subscriptions to aid construction of the Western North Carolina, Williamston and Tarboro, Wilmington, Charlotte and Rutherford and Eastern railroads.

Raleigh, N. C., November 6.—The bonds involved in the proceedings begun in the supreme court today by attorneys representing the Cuban government in an effort to recover $2,185,000 from the state of North Carolina were known as special tax bonds and were issued by the so-called "carpetbag" administrations in this state immediately after the civil war. The issues named were among those later repudiated by the legislature and although numerous suits have been filed against the state by bondholders all courts thus far have held the repudiated issues invalid.

VILLA IS DOMINANT IN CHIHUAHUA STATE

Only the Capital Is Held by the Forces of General Carranza.

El Paso, Texas, November 6.—The Associated Press correspondent at Chihuahua City, who reached the border last night, was informed before leaving Chihuahua City that Dr. Encarnacion Brondo Whitt, the physician of Guerrero, Chihuahua, who had been made prisoner by Villa and forced to treat the bandit's wounded leg, was in Guerrero Saturday in charge of Villa's temporary field hospital. Dr. Brondo Whitt is a Mexican citizen, not a British subject. He was reported recently by refugees from Chihuahua City as having been killed by Villa bandits.

It was reported today to the German consul at Juarez that a Belgian subject had been killed in Santa Rosalia by Villa forces, but this was not confirmed. A Spaniard, who arrived from Chihuahua City last night, claimed to have confirmation of the report that Dr. C. H. Fisher, aged and wealthy American physician at Santa Rosalia, had been stabbed to death by Villa bandits. State department agents received information from Chihuahua City today that merchants in that city were shipping supplies to the border at Juarez for fear they would be captured by Villa should he enter the town.

Other refugees reaching the border assert that Villa holds practically everything in the state of Chihuahua save the capital.

Seven thousand is considered by these refugees to be a conservative estimate of the number of men Villa has. Carranza soldiers, refugees say, are joining Villa daily.

The arrival here of Mrs. Enriquez, mother of Governor Ignacio Enriquez, in Chihuahua has caused Mexicans having relatives in Chihuahua City to telegraph them to come to the border.

TREVINO TO HOLD CHIHUAHUA CITY.

Chihuahua City, November 6.—Evacuation of this city by the Carranza forces is not being considered, and if an attack is made by the Villa bandits, the garrison will repulse the bandits, General Trevino declared to the correspont of the Associated Press yesterday.

"We have more than 8,000 seasoned fighters in the garrison here and our fortifications are impossible to overcome without heavy artillery, which Villa does not possess," General Trevino stated. "We are prepared for an attack and my men are ready to fight to the last. The spirit of the men is unbroken, and I am determined to remain in Chihuahua City and repulse the bandit horde."

It is expected the junction of Carranza forces at Escalon, south of Jimenez, will be completed tomorrow when the forces of General Fortunato Maycotte, those of General Domingo Arrieta, another column under General Murgia, and the forces from Parral under General Luis Herrera will meet and form a division in command of General Murgia. The offensive against the Villa bandits then will be resumed, according to a statement made at military headquarters. It is expected General Murgia will have approximately 11,000 troops in his division when it is completed.

Sunday School Heads Name February 17 Sunday School Day

Macon, Ga., November 6.—(Special.)—The executive committee of the Georgia Sunday School association held its semi-annual meeting in Macon today, with twelve members in attendance, and fixed February 17 as Georgia Go-to-Sunday-school day.

The Go-to-Sunday-school movement was originated by the Georgia Sunday School association three years ago to celebrate Georgia's birthday, and since that time five other states have set apart a day for the observance. The executive committee also fixed May 8, 9 and 10 as the dates for the state Sunday school convention to be held in Savannah, and appointed committees to arrange for the convention.

In attendance at the meeting today were D. W. Sims, state secretary, Atlanta; Dr. Joseph Broughton, Atlanta; Dr. Henry B. Mays, Atlanta; Professor Floyd Field, Atlanta; James W. Morton, Athens; Ben Thompson, Madison; M. S. Shivers, Eatonton; Dr. E. C. Dargan, Macon; W. H. Roper, Macon, and L. C. Hall, Milledgeville.

McDonough, Ga., November 6.—(Special.)—Walter McElreath, representative of Fulton county, in the general assembly, accidently ran over and painfully injured the little daughter of Henry Amis, of McDonough, Ga., at 4 o'clock Monday afternoon.

The child was standing by the machine when the driver with Mr. McElreath started his engine. As the car moved off, the clothing of the child became entangled with some part of the machine, throwing her under the wheels. The car was stopped immediately, but the rear wheels had passed over the shoulder of the little girl.

No arrests were made, as witnesses declared the occurrence clearly an accident.

David, of the Atlanta police force. The three other men gave their names as Pat Smith, Jim Harris and Hammond Blackman.

All four men were injured slightly in the accident to their car, which occurred in the center of this city.

Nujol For Constipation

"I NEVER HAVE COLDS"

Colds are unnecessary for the most part. Experienced singers and speakers know that colds can be prevented by building up a reserve of health and vitality that will successfully resist colds.

That means, first of all, getting rid of constipation. Any physician will tell you that constipated persons are extremely susceptible, not merely to colds but to other diseases, infectious and otherwise.

Laxatives and cathartics cause more constipation than they cure. The more you take, the more you will require.

Nujol relieves constipation without forming a habit, and without upsetting the normal processes of digestion. It acts in effect as an internal lubricant, preventing the contents of the intestines from becoming hard, and so facilitating natural movements.

All druggists carry Nujol which is manufactured only by the Standard Oil Company (New Jersey). Avoid substitutes. Write today for booklet "The Rational Treatment of Constipation."

No Vandy-Tech Game Possible

SPORTS—Edited by Dick Jemison.

NO VANDY-TECH GAME POSSIBLE

Tech Will Not Play Post-Season Game, While Vanderbilt Will Not Play on November 25.

There will not be any game between Vanderbilt and Tech this season. It had been suggested that a post-season game between the two schools be arranged, provided Vandy and Tech went through their schedules undefeated.

It has long been the policy of the Tech faculty not to permit a post-season contest, as it would conflict with the mid-term examinations which come in December.

Vanderbilt's captain, "Rabbit" Curry, in a recent interview was quoted as saying that he and his mates would be glad to play Tech after Thanksgiving day, and Coach McGugin favored only that scheme, but Tech authorities are quoted as stating that the only possibility of a game would be on the open date, November 25.

Vanderbilt would not consider such a date in view of the Sewanee game on the following Thursday, while, after due consideration, we believe that Tech's coach would not sanction such a game with the Auburn contest coming right on its heels.

Therefore, there seems little likelihood of such a game being arranged.

ELEVEN TEAMS TIED IN BICYCLE CONTEST

After Six Hours of Racing. Men Will Ride 10 Hours a Day Until Saturday Night.

Boston, November 6.—Eleven teams of bicycle riders, contestants in the six-day race which began late this afternoon, were on even terms tonight after six hours of racing. Each team had covered 147 miles and seven laps at 10 o'clock, a record for local races of this kind. The men will ride ten hours a day until Saturday night.

The contesting teams are: Reggy McNamara and Bob Spears, both of Australia; Alfred Goullet, Newark, N. J., and Al Grenda, Australia; Clarence Carmen, New York, and George Wiley, Buffalo; Eddie Root, Melrose, and Ivor Lawson, Salt Lake City; Willie Hanley, San Francisco, and Edward Madden, Newark; Frank Corry, Australia, and Jake Magin, Newark; Tom Bellow, Italy, and Vincenozo Madona, Providence; Tim Sullivan, New Haven, Conn., and Ray Eaton, Newark; Lloyd Thomas and Percy Lawrence, San Francisco; Marcel Dupis, France, and Harry Kaiser, Germany; Arthur and William Spencer, Toronto, Canada.

In Seven Years Alabama Has Beaten Tech But Once

The scores of the Alabama-Tech games prior to 1909 are not obtainable, but in the last seven years Alabama has won but one game from the Yellow Jackets, and in winning that one she upset the dope considerably.

The teams did not play in 1909 or 1913. Alabama won the 1914 contest, 13 to 0, while the 1911 game was a scoreless tie. In 1910 Tech was a 36 to 0 victor, a 20 to 3 victor in 1912, and a 21 to 7 victor in 1915.

Tech is doped as the winner again this season, but she is not expected to win as handily as first indications pointed. Without Vandergraaf, their great tackle and back, the Tuscaloosans were believed weak, but a well-rounded eleven has been worked out by Coach Kelly this season.

Just how formidable the Tuscaloosans really are remains to be seen. Regardless of any claims to the contrary, they cannot be considered as strong as the Jackets, who possess one of the best elevens in the south this season.

But the Alabama game will be a stiff test for the Jackets. The "thin red line" is expected to furnish every bit as stubborn a resistance as Davidson did, though hardly as formidable a one as North Carolina or Washington and Lee did.

Alabama will open up against Tech and the local football fans should see a well-played, open style football game, regardless of result.

FIVE TEAMS LEFT IN S. I. A. A. RACE

Alabama and Tennessee Seem Certain to Be Eliminated Next Saturday by Tech and Vanderbilt.

Tech, Alabama, Vanderbilt, Tennessee and Auburn are the five undefeated elevens in the S. I. A. A. title race.

Next Saturday two of these five will be eliminated and the dope points to Alabama and Tennessee being the victims. Neither Tech or Vanderbilt should have any real serious trouble in eliminating these two contenders.

This will put it up to Saturday, November 18, with the Vanderbilt-Auburn contest as the real one of the year, when another title contender will be eliminated, and it is possible that only the Thanksgiving day games will determine the ultimate holder of the title.

On the same date as the Vandy-Auburn contest, Tech plays Georgia, and to remain in the hunt for the title, the Jackets must win over their old rivals. Then should Auburn be victorious over Vanderbilt, the Tech-Auburn game Thanksgiving day would be for the championship of the south.

RILEY NAMED SECRETARY FOR BOSTON NATIONALS

Boston, November 6.—Business Manager Walter E. Hapgood, of the Boston National league baseball club, announced tonight the appointment of Edwin L. Riley as traveling secretary. The appointee until a month ago was secretary of the Boston club of the American league. He will be in charge of the National league team's affairs on the road throughout the season and will supervise during the spring training trip the business end of the Braves' joint exhibition tour through the south with the New York Americans.

"Jitney" Riders Killed.

Camden, N. J., November 6.—Three men and a woman were killed by a Pennsylvania train which struck a jitney bus in which they were riding near here today.

LOCAL PREP SEASON WILL OPEN FRIDAY

Boys' High Plays G. M. A. Tech High Meets Darlington High Saturday Morning.

The local prep league football season will be officially opened Friday, when Boys' High plays G. M. A., and a red-hot game is promised. There are but three teams in the City Prep league this year, Tech High, last year's champions, being the other member.

Tech High will play Darlington High Saturday morning at Grant field, and a comparison of the strength of Tech and Boys' High can be made from the game, as Darlington decisively defeated Boys' High recently.

CORNELL-MICHIGAN CLASH INTERESTS

A classic among the intersectional football games is the Cornell-Michigan argument, which is scheduled for next Saturday. The Ithacans first met the Ann Arbor bunch in 1889. Westerners would just as soon that this game be forgotten, for the effete easterners wiped up the field with the Wolverine lads, defeating Michigan by a score of 66 to 0. Michigan returned to the fray the next year and escaped with a 20-to-5 beating. In 1891 the Wolverines again made a miserable showing, Cornell winning 58 to 12, and in a second game that year 10 to 0. In 1892 two games were played, Cornell having the heavy end of 44-0 and 30-10 scores. There was no game in 1893, but in 1894 there were two. Cornell took the first 22 to 0, but in the second Michigan won by a score of 12 to 4. The whole state of Michigan went wild with joy. That was the end of the first football series between Cornell and Michigan, and they were not again pitted against each other until 1911. Cornell won that year 6 to 0, but Michigan turned the tables in 1912 20 to 7. The Wolverines repeated in 1913 17 to 0. Cornell won the 1914 and 1915 games 28-13 and 34-7.

BOYS' HIGH DOWNS MONROE AGGIES

By Clark Foreman.

The Boys' High beat the Fifth district Agricultural and Mechanical school at Monroe Saturday with a score of 7 to 0.

John Hopkins, the quarterback of Boys' High, made their only touchdown and B. Adams kicked goal. J. Richardson, right tackle on the home team, made good tackles and also played a fine defensive game.

A. & M.'s particular stars were Baron, at quarterback, and Neville, their fullback, who happens to be the brother of Georgia's star fullback.

Although the A. & M. boys outweighed the Boys' High team 17 pounds to a man, they could not pass Boys' High 20-yard line.

BOBBY WAUGH IS THE COMING STAR

With a knockout record the envy of lightweight boxers, and with the experience few possess, Bobby Waugh, idol of southern fight fans, is about to make his first appearance among the battlers of the north and east.

Twenty-round contests seem to be a specialty with Waugh, for in the past three years the little Texan has participated in more long distance battles than any of the present-day lightweights. And in shorter bouts he appears to have been equally successful. His victories in the past three years over the best boys in the south and middle west stamps him as one of the real contenders for the title held by Freddie Welsh.

Fight fans will best remember Waugh's early career because of his two draws with that sterling Chicago lightweight, Charley White.

CONFIDENCE MARKS FINANCIAL MARKET

Pending Election Seems to Have No Effect on Day's Activities — Fundamental Conditions Control.

New York, November 6.—Wall street's confidence in, or indifference to, the outcome of the presidential election was unmistakably demonstrated, according to the individual point of view, by today's operations. In the judgment of dispassionate observers, the market's remarkable strength and breadth—its undercurrent of confidence—were based on fundamental and intrinsic conditions far removed from immediate political considerations.

United States Steel was the central fature to a greater extent than recently, not only because of its extraordinary activity, in which it far outdistanced all other favorites, but also by reason of its rise of 3⅛ points to 123¼, exactly a point above its previous maximums. Utah Copper and Central Leather rivalled steel in ascending to new records, Utah gaining 2⅛ at 114¼ and Leather 5 points at 103¼.

Urgent demand was indicated at various times for other industries and equipments, notably Lackawanna, Crucible and Sloss-Sheffield Steels, Republic Iron, Colorado Fuel, American and Baldwin Locomotives, the sugars, motors, papers, fertilizers and petroleums and issues dependent in a measure on tariff conditions. Gains in these diversified groups ranged from one to four points, the greater part of which was retained.

Other coppers followed the pace set by Utah, though in more moderate degree, their course being guided by reported sales of the refined metal for delivery in the spring of next year at 30½ cents per pound. There were irregular gains at one to two and a half points in National Enameling, American Woolen, Pittsburg Coal and Lorillard Tobacco, while Columbia Gas featured the utilities at the record quotation of 47½.

Rails were firm to strong, Reading, Union Pacific, New York Central, St. Paul and Atchison representing the dividend payers, while Rock Island, Denver and Rio Grande preferred, Southern Railway common and preferred, Wabash and Chesapeake and Ohio were foremost in the minor division. Total sales amounted to 1,520,000 shares.

Bonds were firm, but lacking in special features. Total sales, par value, aggregated $6,125,000.

United States bonds were unchanged on call.

Flour seems to have reached a resting place in its upward march the past ten days. The same is true of shortenings; while rice, which is about the only staple food which has not shown a big advance in price, is working higher. Sugar, which has been very scarce the past two weeks, is being obtained in larger quantities.

WHEAT UP AGAIN FOR GOOD GAIN

Difficulty Experienced in Canada Causes Advance of 1 1-4 to 2 1-2 Cents—Market Closes Strong—Other Grains Up.

Chicago, November 6.—Unsettled weather in Canada hampering threshers and shippers led to an upturn in wheat prices today after an early decline due largely to Argentina rains. The market closed strong 1¼ to 2½c net higher with December at $184⅝ and May at $1.86½. Corn gained ½ to ⅝c, oats ⅝c and provisions 12 to 32c.

It was not until the last half of the session that the bulls were enabled to obtain control of the wheat market. Previously the trade was under the influence of advices telling f welcome supplies of moisture in southern Argentina, the precise section where downpours would be of most benefit in offsetting the effects of drought. Another advantage for the bears here was the fact that speculative demand here was minimized on account of hesitancy about making new commitments just before a general holiday. Knowledge that the United States visible supply still showed a tendency to increase counted likewise against the bulls. All these factors, however, were subsequently put at a discount by news that the British government was buying on a large scale at Winnipeg as a result of prospective cutting down of receipts.

Signs of improved export demand at the United States seaboard contributed to the late strength in wheat. In this connection it was pointed out that world shipments were about 3,000,000 bushels under last year's and that the amount of wheat on ocean passage was also largely short of the corresponding total in 1915.

Corn responded alike to the early weakness and the late firmness of wheat. Increasing receipts of corn were counterbalanced by fresh export sales.

Oats swayed with other cereals. Bulls contended that the visible supply of oats had about reached the crest for this session.

Higher quotations on hogs and corn sent provisions upgrade. Lard, especially, was in demand.

SEA ISLAND COTTON BRINGS FANCY PRICE

Valdosta, Ga., November 6.—(Special.)—Sea island cotton went to 44 cents a pound on the Valdosta market Saturday. This price means that an average bale of sea island, with its seed, is bringing $230, and with the keenest sort of bidding among the buyers. The market price for sea island is nearly 10 cents a pound higher than it has been in fifty years or since the civil war days.

As a result, more money is in circulation throughout this section than was ever known before. It is believed that the sales here within the past sixty days have been greater than the best twelve months ever known before. The only trouble is the dealers can not get cars fast enough.

Sugar.

New York, November 6.—Aside from the strength and activity in futures there was very little feature to the sugar market today. Holders offered Cubas at 5⅝c cost and freight, but buyers were inclined to hold off until after election and no sales were reported. Closing prices were 5 7-16c cost and freight, equal to 6.46 for centrifugal and 5.59 for molasses sugar, all nominal.

In refined no changes occurred in prices, nor was there any great amount of business reported, although there were fair withdrawals on old contracts. Prices were listed at from 7.50 to 7.60 for fine granulated.

There was an active trade in futures and closing prices showed advances of 5 to 15 points with the new crop positions showing the maximum gain.

Shorts covered freely for over the holiday, but the chief support seemed to come from trade and Cuban interests. Sales for the day were 32,400 tons. December sold from 5.20 to 5.29.

New York, November 6.—The cotton market was comparatively quiet today and fluctuations were irregular enough to indicate further evening up for over the election and the report of the census bureau on Wednesday. On the whole, however, the tone was steady, with January contracts selling up to 19.12 in the late trading and closing 19.10. The general list closed very steady at a net advance of 11 to 18 points.

The market opened steady at an advance of 10 to 12 points and the active months sold 14 to 16 points net higher shortly after the call in response to relatively firm cables. Private advices from Liverpool attributed the strength there to trade calling and continental buying, which had readily absorbed a little hedge selling and scattering liquidation. Reports of a better demand from India and China from Manchester were also a factor, and houses with Liverpool connections were good buyers here on the opening advance.

Considerable realizing was encountered, however, particularly from Wall street and western sources, and a rumor that a small American steamer had been sunk by a submarine seemed to cause some uneasiness during the middle of the morning. January sold off from 19.09 to 18.98, and May from 19.36 to 19.24, or back to within 3 or 4 points of Saturday's final figures. Pressure then subsided, however, while later reports indicated that the steamer mentioned earlier had recently been transferred from American to Norwegian register, and the market firmed up again during the afternoon on the large export movement, covering, further buying by spot interests and support from Wall street sources. Demand from the latter direction became quite active in the late trading, with March selling up from 19.10 to 19.25, while May advanced to 19.40. The close was within a point or two of the best. The strength in the stock market was supposed to be stimulating the Wall street demand for cotton late in the afternoon.

New Orleans Gains 17 to 20 Points.

New Orleans, November 6.—A quiet but steady tone prevailed in cotton today throughout the session of this market. Prices held at the advance, although fluctuations were not wide, and trading was plainly restricted by the election and the holiday tomorrow. In the early trading active months stood 11 to 16 points up and this gain was well maintained until the afternoon, when the advance widened to 18 to 21 points. Closing pirces were 17 to 20 points up.

Better cables than due were mainly responsible for the opening advance. Private cables told of a large business in Manchester. The market was sustained chiefly by expectations of a bullish ginning report Wednesday morning, while the highest prices of the session were reached following the marking up of spot quotations by 13 points and the posting of large exports, all United States ports clearing 77,196 bales for the day, about the largest foreign movement for a single day this season.

The market had little selling power at any time.

ATLANTA'S STRIDES
From Day to Day

Outside of a business lease made yesterday real estate men neglected their business for the more exciting pastime of "talking politics" and betting "election hats."

Wednesday ought to see a big pile of commissions turned into the purchase of hats at the local haberdashers.

When the reporter would approach a real estate firm and inquire of the senior or junior partner this is what would happen:

Reporter:

"Have you any real estate news today?"

Senior partner to junior partner and reporter:

"What do you think about my bet I've just made with my rent manager? I bet him a hat that Wilson would be elected."

Junior partner before reporter could speak:

"Ah, it's a dead loss. Might as well pay now. Hughes got 'em beat—the bankers are for him. I just bet the head bookkeeper a hat on Hughes. He's got 307 electoral votes to his credit. I don't care what they say about Wilson winning, he's a'goner.'"

And this line of talk was to be had from every agency in the city, almost. One agent had even bet another agent his automobile on the election and another a free railroad ticket to Macon, Ga., to see the Macon fair.

The reporter sighed, and thought of the blessing to be heaped upon him in the way of sale and exchange announcements said to be forthcoming just as soon as the nation's financial interests assume a more settled condition, due to the election being over.

"I'll get the news then. They can't talk election to me then. They can't talk anything but market conditions, the influence of the price of cotton or real estate values, etc. I'll get some good 'dope' from them that'll make the city editor sit up and take notice."

These thoughts ran through the reporter's head as he slowly wound his way through the city's dense throngs back to the local rooms to seat himself before his typewriter and peg out these few lines.

PROFESSIONAL VIEWS ON COTTON SITUATION

New York, November 6.—(Special.)—The cotton market today was a pre-holiday affair and was devoid of interest. We cannot see how the election will have any material effect upon cotton, as the laws of supply and demand will supercede the laws made or unmade by politicians for the present at least. Other lines of business may be affected and a slight sentimental reflex involve cotton but our judgment still leads us to look for higher prices and we believe purchases made at or around present levels will prove profitable. Liverpool due three points up for January contracts.

We also continue bullish on oil at the market. JOHNSTON, STORM & CO.

New York, November 6.—(Special.)—While no special news made its appearance over the week-end, the market today displayed a firm undertone and prices ruled higher under moderate buying. All advices indicate continued activity at manufacturing centers and under these circumstances cotton must find a ready market. We favor its purchase on all setbacks.

BOND, M'ENANY & CO.

New York, November 6.—(Special.)—The cotton report today showed a good undertone throughout the greater part of the session. Efforts of some of the local shorts to hammer prices met with little success. The ginning figures to November 1 will be published at 10 o'clock Wednesday. If large, they will be accepted as indicating the small crop that is quite generally regarded as inevitable. If smaller than expected, some interests may consider them as forecasting early exhaustion.

The result of tomorrow's election may affect stocks favorably or unfavorably. Cotton, however, will be worth no less than it was today. Change of administration, which could not become effective until March 4, will not increase the yield, lessen exports or diminish home consumption. We believe the recent high prices will be duplicated and crossed by December 1 and think the market should be bought on all moderate declines. However, profits on sharp rallies should not be ignored. Rome was not made in a day, nor can cotton prices be expected to work skyward indefinitely without experiencing recessions as a result of temporarily changing conditions and sentiment.

Cotton oil was stronger today in sympathy with higher lard and cotton. We favor purchases on sharp breaks. All American exchanges will be closed tomorrow. The Liverpool market will be open.

CHARLES FAIRCHILD & CO.

New York, November 6.—(Special.)—The cotton market today has been steady, with small transactions. It is apparent that the period of liquidation is over and future changes will depend upon such new interests as shall develop in response to the underlying forces.

J. W. JAY & CO.

New York, November 6.—(Special.)—In anticipation of a bullish ginners' report on Wednesday the market has slowly advanced some 15 points, closing firm at the best prices of the day. The buying orders came principally from western and Wall street brokers, as the continued good weather over the cotton belt is tending to create a feeling among the cotton houses that the yield will prove larger than current estimates.

Buyers, however, are very confident that the bureau report on Wednesday will be a bullish one and that the advance in the stock market will lead to further buying of cotton by Wall street houses.

HUBBARD BROS. & CO.

New York, November 6.—(Special.)—The cotton market, like stock and grain, wants to meet the election without commitment, not that either bull or bear has any well defined idea that the election will have any marked effect, but merely to avoid the surprise which sometimes occurs. If, in fact, regardless of the usual criticism given by both political parties, Wall street is about evenly divided in its politics and inclined to be optimistic regardless of results. The timidity shown by the bulls selling out some of their stocks and the bears covering their short cotton are about the only striking features of the day.

When the election is over the bulls will buy back their stocks and if the ginning report justifies the bears will again sell cotton. The ginning report is expected about 8,500,000 to 8,600,000, and if these are realized the bulls will be right regarding the size of the crop as well as on the market. If the ginning figures exceed 8,750,000 the bulls will have trouble defending small crop arguments. We think the spinner is well provided for in his forward wants and do not think he will prove an urgent buyer for the time being.

APOLOGY "PLANTED," DECLARES STEPHENSON

Law Associate of Slain Stokes Chief Witness Against Attorney Trabue.

Nashville, Tenn., November 6.—In the trial of Charles C. Trabue, who shot and killed Harry S. Stokes, an attorney, in the latter's office April 26, J. G. Stephenson, protege and law associate and chief witness for the state, today was cross-examined on the testimony given last Friday. He declared that in his opinion the retraction of an insult that Trabue claims to have carried to the office for Stokes to sign and which Stephenson found two days later, was "planted" there, as it was not found for two days, notwithstanding court officers and detectives had spent several hours in the room on the day of the killing.

Through the questioning of Jeff McCarn for the defense, Stephenson told of having been the first to enter the room after the killing; that immediately upon entering he locked the door and was alone there for a short time. He admitted that he had a key to the suite of offices, but denied that after the first few moments following the tragedy he was in the private office except when court officers were present.

R. E. Blake, an attorney who was in one of Stokes' offices at the time of the killing, testified that on hearing the shots he hurried into the general reception room and saw Trabue coming out of the reception room adjoining the private office and heard him tell Miss Florence Harrison, the stenographer, that he had killed Stokes. Trabue's shirt, he said, was pulled out from the waist and he was bareheaded. His clothing otherwise was not disarranged.

When Trabue asked him to get his hat, he found the door into the private office closed and locked, and a short time later Stephenson walked out and announced that Stokes was dead.

He carried Trabue's hat to the fifth floor of the building where Trabue had gone after the shooting. He asked him what had been the trouble and Trabue told him, he said, that he had gone to Stokes' office to get him to sign a retraction; that Stokes, who was seated on his desk, lunged at him and he had to kill him.

Employees in the Pittsburg postoffice found a short note, reading: "Just a footnote: Before repairing please use an anesthetic," written on an artificial leg in the parcel post. These words automatically changed the parcel from fourth-class matter to first-class and the postage from 15 cents to $2.62.

BATTLE WAS FOUGHT WITHOUT AEROPLANES

Every Inch of Ground in St. Pierre Vaast Wood Was Danger Spot.

With the French Army on the Somme Front, November 5.—(Via Chantilly. From a Staff Correspondent of the Associated Press.)—The battle today in the district between Sailisel and St. Pierre Vaast wood was fought without the assistance of aeroplanes. The wind blowing 80 miles an hour prevented the planes from ascending and consequently the artillery fire from a hundred German batteries, as well as from the French and British, was uncontrolled aerially. Every inch of the battleground was a danger spot and the correspondent of the Associated Press and other correspondents were compelled to take shelter in a dugout.

When the French infantry attacked a powerfully defended series of trenches with trench mortars and grenades they found a strong garrison, which in one part surrendered in a body with their officers, more than 500 running at racing pace into the French lines, and for two miles and a half to the rear, accompanied by only half a dozen French guards. It was a strange sight when they ran the gauntlet of the German barrage fire.

St. Pierre-Vaast wood is more than two kilometres square, with many positions enfilading each other, and proved a most difficult problem for the French. But French infantry finally rushed the place and held it with slight losses. The battle continued into the night.

THANKSGIVING APPEAL FOR THE WAR SUFFERERS

Long Branch, N. J., November 6.—President Wilson was asked today to include in his Thanksgiving day proclamation an appeal to the people of the United States to give aid to European war sufferers. The request was made by Ignace Paderewski, the pianist, and a delegation representing organizations interested in relief work in Germany, Austria-Hungary, Poland, Russia, Armenia, Syria and other countries.

The committee gave to the president a petition in which it was stated that "the gifts of the American people while generous and constant, are still incommensurate to meet the demands of our brethren in distress, which are constantly increasing, and it should be frankly admitted are as yet by no means proportional to our resources and are not adequate expression of national unselfishness."

The committee left Shadow Lawn under the impression that their request would be granted and that the president already had something of the kind in mind.

Charles S. Macfarland, general secretary of the Federal Council of Churches of Christ in America, and Mr. Paderewski also presented to Mr. Wilson a memorial urging the president to continue his efforts to relieve suffering in Poland. The memorial was signed by Cardinal Farley and Rabbi Joseph Silverman, of New York, and other men representing the Protestant, Roman Catholic and Jewish faiths.

Mr. Paderewski also suggested to the president that a day be set aside on which Americans may give money for Polish relief. One such day already has been designated.

Commenting on the action of the central powers in proclaiming a new and independent kingdom in Poland, Mr. Paderewski said:

"It will only add to the suffering of my people."

ONE JOCKEY IS KILLED AND TWO OTHERS HURT

Baltimore, November 6.—One jockey was killed and two others were seriously injured at Pimlico race track today. Harry Tanzey, 23 years old, Brooklyn, N. Y., fell with his mount in the second steeplechase race and was killed. A little later "Tom" Faretta had his ribs and wrist broken by a fall.

FIERCE-ARROW MOTOR CO. BOUGHT BY N. Y. BANKERS

Buffalo, N. Y., November 6.—Control of the Pierce-Arrow Motor Car Company of Buffalo will be taken over before January 1 by J. and W. Seligman & Co., New York city bankers, and other banking interests of New York allied with them, it was announced today.

George K. Birge, now president of the Pierce-Arrow company, will retire from the presidency and will be succeeded by Charles Clifton, present treasurer.

TRY IT! SUBSTITUTE FOR NASTY CALOMEL

Starts your liver without making you sick and cannot salivate.

Every druggist in town—your druggist and everybody's druggist has noticed a great falling off in the sale of calomel. They all give the same reason. Dodson's Liver Tone is taking its place.

"Calomel is dangerous and people know it, while Dodson's Liver Tone is perfectly safe and gives better results," said a prominent local druggist. Dodson's Liver Tone is personally guaranteed by every druggist who sells it. A large bottle costs 50 cents, and if it fails to give easy relief in every case of liver sluggishness and constipation, you have only to ask for your money back. Adv.

Dodson's Liver Tone is a pleasant-tasting, purely vegetable remedy, harmless to both children and adults. Take a spoonful at night and wake up feeling fine; no biliousness, sick headache, acid stomach or constipated bowels. It doesn't gripe or cause inconvenience all the next day like violent calomel. Take a dose of calomel today and tomorrow you will feel weak, sick and nauseated. Don't lose a day's work! Take Dodson's Liver Tone instead and feel fine, full of vigor and ambition.

To Which Class Do You Belong?

Some business concerns are getting credit to which they are not entitled. Others, clearly entitled to credit, are denied it by their banks.

The first class will not, of course, call an auditor until compelled by their banks to do so. The second suffers injustice through its own neglect.

To which class do you belong? If you are entitled to more credit, your bank will gladly extend it to you upon proper presentation of the facts.

ATROCITY STORY DENIED BY BRITAIN

London Says Germany Is Trying to Get Excuse for Ruthless Submarine Campaign.

London, November 6.—The admiralty tonight in a puclished communique again denies it ever issued orders that survivors of German submarines need not be rescued. The communique states that the German press "is trying to make capital out of what they describe as a second Baralong case, possibly in order to incite American opinion against Great Britain or as a pretext for an unrestrained submarine campaign."

The communique cites the alleged facts of the case, showing that a British auxiliary flying a neutral flag on September 24, 1914, approached a German submarine in the western channel engaged in sinking a British merchantman. When within range the auxiliary hoisted a white ensign and fired on and sank the submarine and then rescued the crew of the merchantman from their boats. When this was done she also rescued two of the submarine's crew who had climbed into a drifting boat.

The communique claims that the use of a neutral flag was justifiable as shown by the German practice in the case of the Moewe and in other instances, and says that "nobody but a German could base an allegation of brutality on the lapse of a few minutes between the rescue of Britishers and Germans."

As described by the German admiralty, the submarine was engaged in the examination of a steamer in the neighborhood of the Scilly islands, apparently an innocent merchantman flying the American flag. The steamer, according to this account ostensibly prepared to lower a boat, but when the submarine had approached to within 300 yards the supposed merchantman suddenly opened concealed ports and began firing. The submarine was sunk, but two of the crew reached the water and swam for an empty boat. The German admiralty alleges that the steamer attempted to ram the boat, and the Germans sprang from it and clung to wreckage half an hour, when the steamer finally picked them up.

Voters Will Decide Five Contests Today For Congress Places

Georgia voters will be called upon today to decide five contests for congress, republicans offering contests in that number of districts. It is admitted that all democratic entries will win, but the republicans are doing everything in their power to make a good showing.

Following are the democratic nominees for congress to be voted on in the twelve congressional districts: First, J. W. Overtstreet, second, Frank Park; third, Charles R. Crisp; fourth, W. C. Adamson; fifth, William Schley Howard; sixth, J. Walter Wise; seventh, Gordon Lee; eighth Samuel J. Tribble, ninth, T. M. Bell; tenth, Carl Vinson; eleventh, J. Randall Walker; twelfth, W. W. Larsen.

The democratic nominees for congress have republican opponents in five districts. These are: First, W. H. Mitchell; fifth, Charles J. Moore; seventh, W. F. Bearden; ninth, J. E. Adams, and Twelfth, J. M. Outler.

DYNAMITE SUSPECTS PLACED UNDER ARREST

Salt Lake City, Utah, November 6.—Six men have been arrested within the last two weeks in connection with the running down of an organized gang of dynamite suspects, it became known today. Nitroglycerin, fuses, caps, powder and other explosives were found on three of the men under arrest, the police say.

According to the police, fifteen men are under suspicion. A chance word dropped by one of the prisoners about the anniversary of Joseph Hillstrom's death going to be celebrated this month has started an investigation which may reveal the real object of the band of suspected dynamiters gathering here. Hillstrom, an Industrial Workers of the World leader, was executed here a year ago for the murder of a Salt Lake merchant.

EVERYTHING REPUBLICAN, DECLARES ROOSEVELT

Oyster Bay, N. Y., November 6.—Theodore Roosevelt delivered his usual election eve address to his friends and neighbors here tonight, urging them to vote the republican ticket tomorrow. Referring to his campaign for Charles E. Hughes, he said:

"It makes no difference whether I have been on a trip to the River of Doubt, on a hunting trip or a political trip, I have to tell my neighbors about it."

8-HOUR WORKING LAW ENFORCED IN MEXICO

Douglas, Ariz., November 6.—The eight-hour working day in Sonora went into effect today in the large mines of the state, at Cananea, Nacozari and El Tigre in accordance with a recent decree of Governor Adolfo de la Huerta. The mining companies also indicated to their men that working more than six days a week was optional with them.

Governor de la Huerta said recently that he expected the defects in the decree, if any, to be shown by its operation between now and the date of the meeting of the Sonora labor congress, January 1, 1917, thereby allowing the congress to amend it.

$4,000,000 BACK TAXES SOUGHT BY MISSISSIPPI

Jackson, Miss., November 6.—Suits to collect back taxes aggregating almost $4,000,000, filed by J. J. Johnston, former state revenue agent, against cotton buyers and merchants in the principal cities of Mississippi were thrown out of court by a decision of the state supreme court today, sustaining the legality of an act passed by the last legislature, ordering abatement of the litigation. The suits have been pending about two years and sought to collect back taxes covering a period of six years, on cotton on hand February 1 each year. The court held the legislature had authority to abate litigation of the character instituted by a state official.

TRAIN OF SIXTY CARS RUNS AWAY ON GRADE

Altoona, Pa., November 6.—Dashing uncontrolled down the ten mile grade of the New Portage branch of the Pennsylvania railroad, near Holidaysburg, today, a coal train of sixty cars crashed into four light engines standing near New Portage Junction. Four railroad men were killed, two are missing and three were injured, one seriously.

If you don't break all records laughing at "Hit-the-Trail Holliday," George M. Cohan will bury his head in the sand.

BISHOP OF WORCESTER ON THE AMERICAN ROLE

New York, November 6.—Speaking at a luncheon given in his honor here today by the Pilgrims of the United States, Rt. Rev. Huyshe Wolcott Yeatman-Biggs, bishop of Worcester, England, asserted that the role which the English people believe the most thoughtful Americans desire to play is that their nation shall be "hailed by all the world, even by those who have been at war, as the herald of true peace and of progress which gives to every nation, big or little, a place in God's sun." Later in his address the bishop said:

"I doubt whether the temper of the allies would ever suffer any suggestion of peace intervention until the cause for which we are ready to give our all is accomplished."

THREE FRENCH PRELATES TO BE MADE CARDINALS

Paris, November 6.—A dispatch to the Havas agency from Naples says:

"According to the Mattino, Pope Benedict at the next consistory will name three cardinals from among the French prelates in order to show his sympathy for the French clergy. The candidates will be the Archbishops of Rennes, Rouen and Lyons."

A dispatch from Rome October 23 said Pope Benedict would hold a secret consistory December 4 and a public consistory December 7, and that Monsignor Count Raffaele Scapanelli, former papal nuncio at Vienna, and Monsignor Fruewirth, former nuncio at Munich, would receive the red hat. Since this dispatch another vacancy in the sacred college has been created by the death of Cardinal Francis Della Volpe, prefect of the congregation.

SUBMARINE TORPEDOES GERMAN DREADNAUGHT

British Admiralty Says the Amount of Damage Done Is Not Known.

London, November 6.—A British submarine operating in the North sea reports that she fired torpedoes at a German battleship of the dreadnaught type yesterday, making a hit. The amount of damage inflicted is not known, the admiralty announces.

The announcement follows:

"One of our submarines operating in the North sea reports that she fired torpedoes at a German battleship of the dreadnaught type near the Danish coast yesterday. The vessel was hit. The amount of damage is unknown."

The laws of Honduras provide for a general census of the population every five years. The last census was taken in 1916, so that 1915 was the regular census year; but, owing to the unfavorable economic conditions, the census was postponed and will be taken December 17, 1916.

Four different sets of republican tickets appeared on the streets yesterday, each bearing the name of a different candidate for tax collector.—(adv.)

GET THE RIGHT MAN FOR THE RIGHT JOB

If every employer could get the right man on the right job, the problem of running a business would be settled.

The lost motion resulting from the wrong man or the wrong job would be eliminated and the time and money wasted would be saved.

Perhaps such a condition will never prevail, but every time a "Help Wanted" ad is inserted in The Constitution a move is made in that direction.
